US trade deficit narrows

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A sharp increase in exports and a drop in imports during March allowed the United States to narrow its trade deficit to $53 million. The Commerce Department said it was the best foreign trade month for the U.S. since September, 1971, when a $265 million surplus was recorded. The February deficit was $476.2 million.

Lebanese chase Israeli jets

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Israeli jets flew over Beirut today, and over Lebanon's Mediterranean coast Wednesday, but were chased off by Lebanese fighters.

In Jerusalem, Foreign Minister Abba Eban urged Arabs to abandon their "oratorical campaign" against Israel and work for peace. He also repeated charges — denied by Cairo — that Mirage jets sold to Libya by France are now in Egypt.

Murder suspect extradited

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI)

— Edmund E. Kemper III, 24, a 6-foot-9, 240 pounder, was extradited to California from Colorado Wednesday to face murder charges. Kemper, who killed his grandparents nine years ago and reportedly has admitted nine recent slayings, will face charges of killing his mother, Mrs. Clarence Stranberg, 52, and a friend at his mother's apartment.

Indians suspend negotiations

PINE RIDGE, S.D. (UPI) — Indians holding Wounded Knee broke off negotiations with the federal government until Sunday to observe four days of mourning for a comrade who became the first person to die from wounds received in an exchange of gunfire with government forces.

Frank Clearwater, 47, identified as an Apache from Cherokee, N.C., died Wednesday in a Rapid City, S.D., hospital from a head wound suffered April 17 during a heavy exchange of gunfire occupants of Wounded Knee and federal officers.

Collaborator probe slated

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Cal. Theodore Guy, who spent five years in a Hanoi prison, said Wednesday he will begin an investigation next week of fellow POWs who collaborated with North Vietnam. Guy said the small number "who turned their backs on their fellow Americans for their own welfare" should be charged with aiding and abetting the enemy. He said he considers them traitors.

Japanese rail workers strike

TOKYO (UPI) — Thousands of transportation and communication workers began a 72-hour strike today that union and government officials warned could become the gravest in postwar Japan.

National railway motormen stopped passenger trains and freight cars in major cities outside Tokyo, postal clerks in main post offices stayed away from work and telephone operators and maintenance workers struck in Tokyo and other big cities.

1,350 Americans still missing

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — The Pentagon official in charge of the return of U.S. POWs said Wednesday about 1,350 Americans are still unaccounted for in Southeast Asia.

It may take three to five years before their status is known, Dr. Roger E. Shields, assistant to the secretary of defense for international security affairs, said.

It is difficult to pinpoint an exact number of Americans whose status is still unknown after the peace agreement in Vietnam, he said.

S. Viet voting scheduled

SAIGON (UPI) — A government spokesman said today Saigon will go ahead with plans for senatorial elections Aug. 26 despite Wednesday's Viet Cong rejection of a South-Vietnamese proposal for internationally supervised general elections.

However, because of a hitch in the Vietnam's election laws, the Viet Cong would be unable to participate as a party in the Senate race.

Soviets forecast tremors

MENLO PARK, Calif. (UPI) — Soviet scientists said Wednesday they have successfully predicted three moderate tremors in Asia with the use of sophisticated equipment.

The Russians gave that report in a meeting with their American counterparts at the United States Geological Survey's earthquake headquarters in Menlo Park.

US lists new welfare rules

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration announced today final regulations on federally financed welfare services that drastically reduce federal participation in day care, mentally retarded and other social services for welfare recipients.

Most of the new federal regulations take effect July 1. "Today I am announcing our final regulations governing social services, a series of programs developed to get families off the welfare rolls and on to the job rolls and keep them there," Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare told a news conference.

The final rules represented minor concessions to critics of administration proposals first published Feb. 16 for services to children, poor families, the aged, handicapped and other needy persons.

Weinberger denied that the original proposal would have reduced the amount of day care programs available to needy families.

"These regulations will provide more, and not less, child day care for these families," Weinberger said.

"These regulations will not force any low income family back onto welfare because of child day care expenses," he added in response to another frequent charge from critics of the proposal. Weinberger said the regulations "carry out both the intent of the Congress and the directions of the President that federally supported social service programs shall be focused directly on those most in need."

One concession to critics will be a sliding fee schedule for subsidized day care that will allow some near-poor families, earning more than the proposed rules would have allowed, to buy child care services, top officials in the department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) told UPI.

Other changes from the proposal will continue some aid for mentally retarded children that would have been eliminated; allow states to continue using, "with certain safeguards," private donated funds as part of the local matching funds necessary to get federal aid, and liberalize slightly the income levels persons must have to be eligible for services.

The administration contends that the tighter rules are necessary to curb spending abuses and direct the services to the neediest persons, mostly those on welfare, rather than to potential or former welfare recipients who have been eligible for services under existing rules. Federal matching funds for social services are provided on the basis of $3 for each state and local dollar.

"We will have some constructive and major improvements in the delivery of social services when the regulations are published," HEW Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger told newsmen at a luncheon earlier this week.

HEW officials say that no welfare issue in recent memory has drawn the storm of criticism that the proposed social services regulations prompted.

TF sets fund use

By DAVID ESPO Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Expanding on their previous announcements, the Twin Falls County commissioners Wednesday made public a plan to allocate virtually all of the county's budgeted revenue sharing money.

They made their proposals at a meeting with a group of area residents, including some members of the Idaho Tax Equality Association.

and its funds from a professional planner, who they said could lead to a dictator assuming control over the area, with the commissioners themselves being "phased out."

The commissioners had set aside the first three days of the week to allow the public to react to their previous proposals to allocate nearly $200,000 of the $412,000 the county has in revenue sharing money.

But those proposals were suddenly expanded Wednesday to include all of the funds.

The commission laid out a plan to spend nearly $150,000 on the county fairgrounds new rider, as well as refurbish three county buildings, approve money for the renovation of the Twin Falls American Legion Hall for a district health office headquarters and allocate funds for the purchase of fire and rescue equipment at the city-county airport.

They suggested building roads, one to the landfill south of the city and the other west and then north of the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, and want to spend $50,000 putting space for 24 juvenile detainees in the county jail on the fourth floor of the courthouse, as well as provide $5,000 for senior citizen projects.

In effect, their recommendations, if adopted, mean the rejection of a plea from Twin Falls City Council and City Manager Jean Millar for cooperative funding to hire a planner to coordinate growth.

Commission Chairman William L. Chancey said the request, made formally in a letter earlier this week would be "answered to a point that we would review their request and see what the possibilities might be."

But the possibilities, he said, were not good for the current year if their allocations went as planned. He did say, however, that competitive bidding might lower the cost of some of their projects.

$2,000 fine to TF cattle buyer

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES Times-News writer

BOISE — A former Twin Falls cattle buyer has been fined $2,000 and given a suspended jail sentence on charges of violation of the federal stockyards law.

Robert L. Benefiel was fined $2,000 in U.S. Federal Court in Boise Wednesday by Judge J. Blaine Anderson.

Benefiel entered a plea of guilty to filing a false report of cattle sales in violation of the federal stockyards law. Judge Anderson also ordered a three-year prison term, but suspended it placing Benefiel on probation for three years.

Benefiel pleaded guilty to one count of an eight-count indictment. The seven other counts were dismissed by the court.

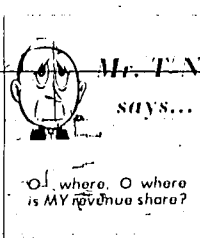

Now a resident of Long Beach, Calif., the defendant is also involved in a $1-million bankruptcy proceeding which Merlin S. Voling, referee of bankruptcy in Idaho, said is still open. A hearing was held in Twin Falls a year ago in which testimony indicated Benefiel held between $800,000 and $1 million in liabilities as the result of several months of cattle buying and selling in Idaho and surrounding states.

Bankruptcy proceedings resulted in setting aside some eight lawsuits against Benefiel in which creditors were attempting to recover money allegedly owed them as a result of insufficient fund drafts allegedly issued by Benefiel at the time of cattle purchases.

Testimony in a bankruptcy hearing in Twin Falls last year indicated Benefiel had purchased several thousand head of cattle at a higher price than he was receiving when selling them to cattle feeders in Idaho and other states.

L. James Koutnik, Twin Falls, receiver and trustee in the bankruptcy proceedings, said household furnishings owned by Benefiel had been sold and other property is for sale to help satisfy creditors in the bankruptcy proceedings. He said that while bankruptcy action is not connected with the federal charge on which Benefiel was fined in Boise, the action did uncover irregularities which resulted in charges being filed.

Koutnik said several hundred thousand dollars had been recovered in an almost nation-wide search for cattle and other property. He said it is believed all of the cattle in which Benefiel held ownership had been located and are being recovered to satisfy creditors.

First TF petition on file

TWIN FALLS — Voters in Zone 1 of the Twin Falls school district probably will have a choice of candidates in the May 15 trustee election.

Two nominating petitions now have been taken out, Supt. George Staudacher said this morning, with one returned. Deadline for filing is 5 p.m. Friday. One trustee position is to be filled.

The petitions are for Frank DeLuca, former school board member, and Mrs. Judy Venzon, an elementary school teacher. DeLuca returned his today.

Mrs. Venzon, and her husband, Dr. Dennis Venzon, a pathologist at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, moved to Twin Falls last January from Colorado Springs and intend to make the city their permanent home. They have two pre-school children.

Mrs. Venzon said she feels her concern about schools is "more important than the fact I happen to be an educator."

She has taught in suburbs of Denver and St. Louis, Mo., and received her B. A. degree from the University of Illinois, Urbana.

DeLuca operates the Medical Center Laboratory in Twin Falls, and previously served on the board.

JACK ANDERSON quotes testimony

JOHN W. DEAN 'accuser'

Spying cover-up links top aides

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John W. Dean, White House legal counsel, gave federal prosecutors information two weeks ago suggesting that both H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman knew of efforts to cover up the Watergate bugging, columnist Jack Anderson said today.

Dean "made accusations" against the two top assistants to President Nixon after being confronted by Ehrlichman with allegations that Dean knew of the bugging and then tried to cover it up, Anderson wrote in his column.

Principal Assistant U.S. Attorney Earl J. Silbert, who prosecuted seven men previously indicted in the case, refused a request by Dean for immunity from prosecution, Anderson said.

Anderson said that Dean also made accusations about former Attorney General John N. Mitchell and Jeb S. Magruder, the director and deputy director of the 1972 Nixon re-election organization, and that Magruder was called in by the prosecutors and told of Dean's charges.

"This broke down Magruder who also confessed his role in the conspiracy," Anderson wrote.

Anderson did not identify the source of his information.

In today's column, Anderson said Dean went to the prosecutors April 14 after he "put together some documents he had been saving, which indicated both H.R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman had knowledge of the Watergate cover-up."

Nixon originally assigned Dean to investigate whether any White House aides had a part in the Watergate plot, Anderson said. "By mid-March, 'the President's faith in Dean began to waver' and he instructed him to go to Camp David and prepare a written report on his investigation."

After a few days at the presidential retreat, Dean reported back to the President that he simply couldn't write a report," Anderson wrote. "Angrily, Mr. Nixon took Dean off the Watergate case."

Nixon announced last week he was conducting a fresh, personal investigation of the matter. Informed sources said today he was still "sorting out" the impact of the scandal.

DES ban may hike costs

TWIN FALLS — A hormone used to step up cattle and feed production, DES, was banned Wednesday by the government.

Magic Valley and state cattle industry spokesmen said today costs of raising cattle would rise.

According to UPI, the Food and Drug Administration ordered stoppage effective Friday of implants of diethylstilbestrol as a growth stimulant for livestock.

Use of the synthetic female hormone as a feed additive was banned as of Jan. 1. The action against the implant form means its use must now be eliminated.

Bill Brown, Pocatello, manager of the Idaho Farm Bureau Marketing Association said today, "I think it's ironic at a time that the President has seen fit to single out the meat industry for price controls, that the federal government has also seen fit to take away one of the most effective and safest tools utilized in beef production."

Government regulations had permitted controlled use of the chemical, but had banned any residue in edible portions of livestock. Research showed DES capable of causing cancer in laboratory mice when used in large doses.

The FDA banned DES from use as a feed additive after laboratory tests showed residues appeared in livers of about 2 per cent of the cattle slaughtered.

"To my knowledge," Brown said, "there have been no reports of DES residues in any cattle tissue from implants." The FDA said the order was issued because studies showed use of DES implants left tiny trace residues of the material in the livers of beef cattle.

"The ban could increase the feed necessary to raise a steer to slaughter weight by as much as 10 per cent, and lengthen the time necessary to bring the animal to slaughter condition," Brown said.

Industry spokesmen and some government economists had warned earlier that a ban of the hormone would hike beef cost unless substitute growth stimulants were found.

Arlen Moss, office manager for Uhlig Feed lots, Hansen, said today, "There are some substitutes for rapid growth or weight gain. It might make some difference, but we haven't felt too much concern here."

Sherwin Gardner, acting FDA commissioner, said Washington substitutes were available and the "action need not disrupt the nation's beef supply, cause an increase in meat prices or have an adverse effect of the environment because of increased animal waste."

However, Dr. Vernon Colner, Idaho State Director of Meat Inspection, said "In time, this is bound to have some effect on the meat price structure."

Pat Florence, assistant manager of Independent Meat Company, Twin Falls, said, "Indications are that it will up the cost of raising cattle."

"I don't think too many in this area have been using the implant," he said. "We haven't had any marked reaction to the ban as yet."

Albert Olabarrilla, co-owner and manager of the Twin Falls Livestock Commission Company, said, "The price of cattle production will go up. Feeders are only able to pay a certain price for cattle and still make a profit. If gains on finishing cattle for slaughter cost the raiser more, he will take a loss."

"Not as many will be attracted to raising cattle," he said. Gardner said that the complete ban "was not based on evidence of any public health hazard." The hormone has long been classified as capable of causing cancer when used in large doses, and under federal law no residues of cancer-causing additives are permitted in food products, no matter how low the residue levels might be.

SCCAA seeks funds

TWIN FALLS — The South Central Community Action Agency plans to request $50,000 in additional federal money to carry it through the next fiscal year.

The agency had been granted an $81,000 phaseout grant by the Office on Economic Opportunity to carry it through Dec. 31, but executive director Bob Russell said Wednesday an additional $50,000 would be requested to complete the next fiscal year.

The total package of $130,000, if it is approved, Russell said, would represent essentially the same funding level the agency is now operating on.

The $81,000 had been awarded as a phaseout grant in anticipation of the agency closing at the end of 1973. But a federal judge has ruled the dismantling of OEO illegal without congressional approval, so the local agency is seeking the additional funds.

Geneva confab recesses

GENEVA (UPI) — The 25-nation disarmament conference broke up for a six-week spring recess today with China and France still ignoring an invitation to join the negotiations.

Western, Communist and neutral powers expressed hope that the Chinese and French, as nuclear powers, would take part but there was no response.

The United States, Soviet Union and Britain, the other nuclear nations, have participated since the conference began in 1962.

Talks are now scheduled to resume June 12 with top priority going to the unresolved issue of banning underground nuclear tests.

Mississippi toll of damages high

By United Press International Shattered levees, sandbag shortages and heavy rains brought new worries today to communities battling to tame Mississippi River floodwaters now at their highest level in more than two centuries.

The only good news for flood workers was that because of levee breaks between Quincy, Ill., and St. Louis, Mo., crests will arrive 36 to 48 hours later than predicted.

The National Weather Service reported floodwaters covered portions of 14 states through the middle and lower Mississippi Valley, the southeastern Plains, the eastern Gulf coast and the south Atlantic coast.

But the mighty Mississippi rolled up the greatest toll of property damage as it pounded against permanent and makeshift flood walls from Dubuque, Iowa, to Reserve, La.

Six deaths have been blamed on the floods and thousands have been driven from their homes. Damage estimates reached hundreds of millions of dollars—an estimated $150 million in Louisiana alone and $25 million in Illinois since last weekend.

National Guardsmen, students, Coast Guard reserves and volunteers of all types struggling to bulwark Mississippi levees in the Midwest were running out of sandbags. Heavy rains poured down on the lower Mississippi Valley, triggering flash floods in Mississippi and Alabama.

Illinois Gov. Daniel Walker asked President Nixon to declare the state a major disaster area.

Grafton, Ill., where the flood swollen Illinois River joins the Mississippi, was 80 per cent under water and authorities said the town was to be totally evacuated. Grafton's emergency call was for 3,000 more sandbags. Army engineers at St. Louis said it had already supplied 1.2 million sandbags to flood-battered towns along the river.

The historic cobblestone levee in downtown St. Louis was inundated and floating restaurants and other river bank tourist attractions were out of business during the emergency.

Downstream, Morgan City, La., was declared an emergency area although a built-up levee was holding floodwaters off of the heart of the city.

Asian rebels attack

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Cambodian Communist guerrillas attacked the Phnom-Penh airport with rockets early today, killing 21 persons and wounding 62 others.

At the same time, the High Command said rebel troops had used toxic gas against government troops Wednesday in fighting 21 miles below Phnom Penh.

Cambodian troops using navy landing ships made an amphibious assault against the Mekong River from Phnom Penh late today to try to ease the threat to the capital from the rebels who brought their offensive to within two miles of the heart of Phnom Penh. The rebels were reported in control of a three-mile stretch of land opposite the capital.

Heavy ground fighting was reported in areas six, nine and 11 miles from Phnom Penh as the Communists slowly tried to close a noose on the city. The military situation was reported as "critical" in some of these outer defense areas.

U.S. fighter-bombers and B52s heavily bombed the Communist-held area Wednesday and again this morning in the 30th consecutive day of attacks.

Viet talk begins in France

PARIS (UPI) — U.S. Assistant Undersecretary of State William L. Sullivan, arrived today from Washington with a dossier of Communist cease-fire violations he will present to the North Vietnamese Friday in preliminary talks leading to new consultations in mid-May between Dr. Henry A. Kissinger and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho.

The meeting, at a Hanoi-owned villa in suburban Chateaufort, will bring together Sullivan and North Vietnam's Deputy Foreign Minister Nguyen Co Thach for the first time since the signing Jan. 27 of a peace treaty that was to have ended the war in South Vietnam.

By coincidence Friday is the last day within the 90-day deadline set by the Paris treaty for the Viet Cong and South Vietnamese to settle their differences. The two sides are deadlocked and a major effort Wednesday by Saigon to meet the deadline failed.

Sullivan flew in early today following a Washington announcement that the two men also will arrange for a Paris meeting in mid-May between Kissinger and Tho who negotiated the Jan. 27 peace treaty.

Mrs. Fechner was a school teacher, having taught in Gannett, Dietrich, Washington State, and the past 11 years at Sunnyvale, Calif. Ill health forced her retirement about a year ago and she has since lived in Coos Bay.

She was a member of the Episcopal Church and a member of the Shoshone Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star.

Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. Cynthia Morris, Poplarville, Miss.; Mrs. Barbara Beel, Junction City, Tenn.; and Mrs. Geneva Thorpe, Coos Bay, and four grandchildren.

Graveside services will be at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Shoshone Cemetery with the Rev. Hardy Thompson officiating. The funeral procession will leave the Bergut Funeral Chapel at 1:55 p.m.

2 fund-raising marathons slated Saturday in TF

TWIN FALLS — Civic-minded Magic Valley citizens will be walking and riding in two different directions Saturday in support of separate charities.

Two Twin Falls groups, the TORCH Club (Teens for Retarded Children) and the YMCA-YWCA, are both sponsoring fund-raising marathons.

The "Y" will conduct a "Walk-a-thon" seeking funds needed to complete an indoor swimming pool.

At the same time, TORCH supporters will hold a "Bike-ike" to raise funds for the group's work with retarded persons.

YMCA participants will walk along a 20-mile course beginning at the "Y" building on Elizabeth Boulevard and proceeding on Eastland Drive to Addison Avenue, then to Hansen and back along the Sugar Factory Road to Harmon Park, according to "Y" director Chuck Upton.

TORCH participants will register at the Twin Falls High School at 8:30 a.m. and travel along a 50-mile course along Pole Line Road to Huhl and back, according to chairman Gib Anderson of the sponsoring Twin Falls Optimist Club.

Anderson, who recently assumed the chairmanship of the TORCH event, said the date had been picked about two months ago, and coincided with state and national TORCH bike-ikes.

The YMCA date was picked later, according to Upton.

According to Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce Manager Ray Rostrom, the TORCH group had notified the chamber of its planned bike-ike.

Rostrom said Upton had checked the Chamber's calendar later and was told of the planned TORCH bike-ike.

"If people would use this (chamber calendar) more often," Rostrom said, "it will help avoid conflict. When people call we give them a schedule of what's coming on. We can't tell them not to hold something."

Representatives of both TORCH and the "Y" said they felt the conflict was not serious and could not be avoided.

Anderson said "A conflict of calendar dates is inevitable. Organizations should get together and make the best of these things. We had our date fixed some time before the 'Y' scheduled."

"I hope this won't hurt the TORCH project. Some people probably will have to make a choice," Anderson said. "I don't know whether a person would donate pledges to both groups or not. I doubt it very much."

According to Penny Stevens, TORCH adviser, she had met with Upton when the scheduling conflict became evident.

"There are no hard feelings between the groups," she said. "We decided not to put any pressure on the public."

According to Upton, "We didn't think there would be any big conflict. Three weeks ago, when we found out we already had participants lined up. Once you get people, it is too hard to change dates."

This isn't the only conflict,

Upton said. "We all listed with the Chamber of Commerce and checked the high school and whoever might have something else. Any day of the week there is a conflict. A choice has to be made."

"The pool, when completed, Upton said, will be as valuable for the retarded as for anyone else in the community. Swimming is something that handicapped children need very desperately."

"We don't want an impasse with two organizations at odds with each other," he said.

TF commissioners to collect funds

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County Commissioners said Wednesday they would continue to collect reimbursement from county funds for their drives from home to work and back again.

Commissioner Merl Lenoard said he would maintain the practice until an attorney general's opinion ordered him to do otherwise.

"I don't talk to a man ten minutes but we're discussing county issues," Lenoard said, adding, "He frequently conducted county business on his ride into work in the morning."

A check of county courthouse records last week showed the commissioners were charging 10 cents a mile for their drives to and from work each day.

So far, the tab for the taxpayer in 1973 has been about $200. No other county employee files similar claims for reimbursement.

But Lenoard said the law required that commissioners represent districts in the county thus insuring that some would live a great distance from the courthouse.

By contrast, he said, there was no such rule regarding county employees.

Lenoard said the Idaho Association and County Commissioners and Clerks had requested an opinion from the attorney general about whether such claims were permissible under law.

Revenue sharing money plan set by TF aides

The suggestions also imply rejection of requests made by the Twin Falls League of Women Voters for money on recreational development for both residents and tourists, as well as a formal request that money go for the South Central Idaho Regional Mental Health Center, Inc.

"They also apparently rule out any greater contribution to the city-county airport from revenue sharing funds than the $30,000 pencilled in for the rescue equipment."

The letter from Milar to the commission had requested nearly $75,000 in assistance.

The suggestion of a planner drew fire from the group which met with the commissioners Wednesday. A statement offered by the Tax Equality Association group warned of a subversion of democratic government.

"It was suggested that a planner be employed by the county to spend the money from revenue sharing. Revenue sharing is regional government," the statement read. "There have been ten regions set up over the United States. We're Region X, Seattle. Your state representatives, your county commissioners, your mayor will all be phased-out and a director or dictator will be appointed to run your county if we allow it to happen."

The commissioners agreed there was no need to hire a planner, and one of the revenue sharing money "We're taking care of it right here."

The following is the proposed allocation of the county federal revenue sharing money outlined Wednesday by the commissioners.

Updating of the county fairground water mains and placing a lid on the fairground grandstand, $147,000.

Renovation of three county buildings, including the courthouse, former hospital and nurses home, $85,000; renovation of the county jail, $50,000; assistance for the renovation of the Twin Falls American Legion Hall for the district health office, $30,000; gravel for a road leading to the proposed landfill south of Twin Falls, $25,000; contribution for fire and rescue equipment at the city-county airport, $30,000; funds for county senior citizens, $5,000; construction of a road past the west and north side of the county hospital, $30,000; administrative contingency fund, $10,000.

KIMBERLY — Candidates who have filed for the coming Kimberly School Board election include all of the present board members.

The trustee election, to be conducted May 8, is a result of rezoning of districts in the city by the state department of education last year.

Trustee candidates and length of terms are: Zone 1, two years, incumbent Ron Ballard; Zone 2, three years, Jack Claiborn Jr., present board chairman, and James L. Wright; Zone 3, three years, incumbent Holland Troutburg and Jeff Scott; Zone 4, one year, incumbent Jack Shropshire, William O. Lyda, and George Nauman Jr.; Zone 5, one year, incumbent Johanna Brown and Robert Kohl.

Gem nurses ban smoking

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho Nurses Association meeting in Twin Falls this week voted yesterday to ban smoking from all formal convention meetings.

At the 62nd annual convention, president Mildred Burt, Coeur d'Alene, challenged the participants to maintain professional competence, and to accept responsibility for the delivery of quality health care.

Dr. Ingeborg Mankisch, nurse practitioner, Department of Community Health and Medical Practice School of Medicine, University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo., spoke to the over 300 registered nurses and nursing students Wednesday on "Nursing Knowledge: Hall Life, Five Years."

"What do I see over these students that will be relevant by the year 2000?" she said. "In education we need to provide that kind of input that will enable our learners to look at new ways of problem solving. We must also help them to understand that they will be learners for the rest of their days."

Filer slates public meet

FILER — Citizens interested in the Filer park swimming pool are asked to attend a public meeting at 8 p.m. Friday, Bill Brake, pool chairman, announced that the meeting at the Filer elementary school concerns the final phases of pool construction, concluding costs and fund raising.

CSI grant received

TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho has received a $29,000 grant to establish a senior citizens program.

The award was announced Wednesday by ACTION Seattle region director Marjorie Lynch. ACTION is a federally-funded volunteer agency which includes Vista and the Peace Corps under its administration, as well as the senior citizen program in which CSI will participate.

The grant awarded to the college is for one year. It will enable the school to initiate a Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) in the Magic Valley where more than 16 per cent of the population is age 60 or older.

The RSVP program seeks to place senior volunteers in service with cooperating public and private social agencies throughout the eight-county area. Senior volunteers may serve with nursing homes, schools, child development centers and libraries.

Plans call for the placement of 185 senior volunteers in service the first year, and up to 585 in the next five years.

Any retired person age 60 and over can become an RSVP volunteer, according to ACTION guidelines. There are no educational, economic or experience requirements. RSVP volunteers serve without compensation, but they may receive reimbursement for expenses such as transportation and meals.

CSI president James L. Taylor was out of town today and could not comment on how the college will go about setting up its RSVP program.

Continuing education director Marvin Glasscock, who will play some part in administering the program, was also unavailable.

The War Comes To The Delta

TAN CHAU DISTRICT
TOWN, Chau Doc Province, South Vietnam — Death and near desolation visited upon this charming little river town brings home a grim reality: the 7 million people of South Vietnam's Mekong River delta are suffering more during the bloody "ceasefire" than they did before it was slanged. Strangely immune from the endless Indochina war until now, Tan Chau got in the way of Hanoi's April offensive. The result: murderous artillery shelling which created a temporary ghost town. This is a bitter time for the Delta, the lush, densely populated rice bowl of Indochina. Usually escaping the war's heaviest fighting, the region even missed the full force of Hanoi's 1972 invasion. But since the ceasefire Jan. 27, the Delta has become a target of Communist military operations — to control more land, to capture ports-of-entry into South Vietnam, to secure the Cambodian sanctuary for North Vietnamese troops. Indeed, the Delta's experience deepens disillusionment, growing among South Vietnamese as well as some US officials that the Paris agreement was no more than a cynical masking of US disengagement without workable enforcement procedures to prevent Communist violations. The victim is not only the Saigon government but, particularly in the Delta, the South Vietnamese people.

The major Delta battle since the ceasefire has been an attempt by three North Vietnamese regiments to capture Hang Nu on the Mekong near the Cambodian border as a Communist port-of-entry under the Paris agreement. The 9th South Vietnamese (ARVN) Division prevented that in a battle largely of artillery duelling, which lasted for days.

But Tan Chau, a few miles to the west, suffered. Populated by the rigidly anti-Communist Hoa Hao sect, the town always had been free of Vietcong, subversion and terror. Its prosperous citizens never heard a shot fired in anger. But during the battle of Hang Nu, the 9th ARVN stationed an artillery battery a mile outside Tan Chau.

That subjected Tan Chau to over two weeks of continuous pounding from North Vietnamese artillery, including 122-mm. rockets — powerful but not very accurate — never seen before in this area. On April 6 at high noon, 122-mm. rocket hit the crowded fish market — demolishing 42 buildings and killing 15 people. The toll of total shelling: 85 killed (all but three of them civilians), 276 wounded. Two-thirds of Tan Chau's 30,000 inhabitants fled, leaving its streets and stores deserted. When we visited the town, a few fearful refugees were drifting back.

Nor is this wholly the fortunes-of-war. Even after ARVN artillery was removed from Tan Chau, Communist shelling continued suggesting the attack was designed to terrorize the townspeople, convincing them by force that this is now Communist territory.

That, in fact, seems a major goal in Hanoi's Delta campaign. With Vietcong activity steadily declining in this region since its 1968 peak, the Communists could claim little territory and even less population. Thus, since Jan. 27, they have been pressing to stake out some part of the Delta for the "provisional revolutionary government."

Consequently, Bac Lieu province on the southern coast has experienced its heaviest fighting ever. Additional North Vietnamese troops have infiltrated into the province, partly to seek control of its easternmost district but also in quest of two possible points-of-entry on the Bac Lieu seacoast.

Too Much Money?

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Some men close to this government think things would not have been brought off on the grandiose scale of Watergate and other 1972 administration shenanigans had the money not come so easily.

Says one: "They just had too much money to play with." To say that, of course, is not to lauder the motives and attitudes of people who committed illegal or unethical acts, and these sources are not doing that. But they are making a point.

How did it happen that those hundreds of thousands of dollars were floating around? The answer is a multiple one. The easiest part is the obvious skill of President Nixon's money-raisers. Since Maurice Stans took money command for him in his 1966 campaign for others, he's never been hurting that way.

Put that together with the observable, much-reported fact that Nixon operatives have long been prone to "overkill." That's traceable in a clear line to Mr. Nixon's own conception that the candidate of a major party in the minority must do "extra things" to close the gap.

That may help explain why an incumbent who beat his Democratic rival 49 states to one was getting the dubious "assistance" of men who were feverishly hacking at the underpinnings of the opposition party.

But, back to the money. We all know that even "clean" campaigning today costs a lot, mostly because of television. That leads the fund-raisers to twist arms with added "English."

Still, beyond that, some of it flows in without such encouragement, now and then in a veritable flood.

The favor-seekers, ever with us, were never so busy trying either to buy advantage or smooth a path out of some trouble or other. What we don't know is whether they consider this administration especially vulnerable.

Is any Republican regime, generally perceived as housing more big money than the Democrats do, thought of as likely to be kinder to other, moneyed types, and warmer toward the receipt of yet more money? Or are there specific individuals in the Nixon setup who are seen by favor-seekers as especially juicy targets?

Without trying to define Mr. Nixon's role (if any) in Watergate and other monkeyshines, this can be argued:

A president who functions mostly in an isolation booth of his own making runs the grave risk of knowing too little about either the character or the behavior of many men either authorized or presuming to act in his name and his behalf.

Indeed, some sources in this town make the stronger contention that, once a president's "above battle" outlook is even faintly discerned, his regime — like a powerful magnet — draws maneuvering types to key staff places and automatically opens the door to a field day for the favor-seekers.

In diplomacy, it's a commonplace saying that "not using power is a way of using it." Others flew into the vacuum. Maybe this applies to presidential power across the board.

RAY CROMLEY

Aid To Hanoi

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Those who compare aid for North Vietnam with assistance for Germany and Japan after World War II have missed the point.

In Tokyo and Berlin, the old administrations had collapsed. The irrational men who had caused so much pain and suffering by aggression were in large measure eliminated from posts of power and influence. We demanded and received a reorganization of the systems of government in ways intended to give democracy a fighting chance in those nations.

When American aid was begun, U.S. troops and U.S. advisers were in place in both Japan and West Germany.

Washington thus had the ability and the power to make certain that democratic forms were in fact being instituted, that those wartime leaders most responsible for aggression were being removed and that the aid money was indeed being used in ways which would strengthen the voice of the people in government — a voice which we confidently expected would be for moderation and for nonaggression.

That is, we were buying hope. We were successful to a degree no one could have imagined at that time. Japan and West Germany today are peaceful powers. Their governments stand up well in any comparison with other nations throughout the world.

Hanoi is a different case. The men who planned the invasion of South Vietnam are still in power and intend to remain. They have not given up their aggressive aims — and make no pretense on this point. They are even now moving troops and war supplies south.

We will have no power either to insure government reforms or to oversee how our donated funds are used. No one pretends these monies will go to strengthen democratic institutions or to increase the voice of the people in their government.

The proposed aid to Hanoi plainly is a bribe, intended to induce North Vietnam's leaders to halt their aggression, at least temporarily.

No one in a post of influence this reporter has talked to believes assistance to Hanoi will change that government's attitudes, its objectives or its totalitarian rule.

No one believes Hanoi has given up on conquering South Vietnam by one type of force or another.

It is as though we were to say to a violent man, "We will give you a subsidy of so many dollars a week so long as you are not caught and convicted of seriously assaulting other people."

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Many Causes

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What would cause a burning sensation when urinating? I am 52, have three children. This is more pronounced just before and after my period. This also causes my husband some distress. Is this a process of aging or can I do something to relieve it? — Mrs. R. F.

Aging may or may not be involved, but whatever the cause, you probably CAN relieve it. The first step, however, has to be discovering what the cause is. There are many possibilities.

One thinks first — it's the commonest — of infection in the urinary tract, whether kidneys, bladder, urethra or ureters. Strongest evidence of this would be finding pus cells in the urine, so a laboratory test for that would be very much in order. In fact, first, order of business.

Obstruction at the outlet tube (urethra) of a fold in the membrane (a condition called a caruncle) can be responsible. Highly acid urine may cause burning, and your doctor can advise medication and diet if he finds that to be the trouble.

The fact that your trouble flares up around the time of the menstrual period gives rise to the suspicion that you may be irritated by the flow, or even that you may be sensitive to the menstrual pad you use. Try a different brand. (At your age you cannot expect menstruation to continue much longer.)

Burning also may be part of the aging process. Involving changes in the genital membranes stemming from a decrease in female hormone production. A hormone cream often is prescribed for this.

But to get back to your original question: there isn't any remedy I can suggest for you without knowing the cause of the trouble — and that is something your doctor will have to determine.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had a prescription filled for Griseofulvin for fungus of the toe. I received capsules. I thought it would be an ointment or salve. Do I have the right medicine? — P. W.

Yes, it's the right medicine. This is an unusual — and very useful — medication discovered not so many years ago. It is, in fact, an antibiotic for some types of fungus. It's an antibiotic because it acts by inhibiting the multiplication of the fungus particles, just as the more familiar antibiotics inhibit multiplication of bacteria.

It is, I believe, the only anti-fungus medication that acts in that way, and can be taken by mouth. Other anti-fungus medications would be toxic if taken by mouth, and have to be applied to the surface of the skin.

Don't take chances with "kidney trouble." It may be only minor, but it can be dangerous. Read Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Your Kidneys — Facts You Need To Know About Them." Write to him in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

"Our top salesman has sent a second to refuse his award as a protest against the threat to the giant redwoods."

Fair Or Unfair?

Like the annual reappearance of the cherry blossoms around the Tidal Basin, it's tax reform talk time again in Washington.

High on the agenda is the subject of capital gains, under which income derived from the sale of such assets as stocks, bonds and real estate is taxed at a lower rate than income from wages and salaries.

The rate is about 50 per cent that of ordinary income, the object being to encourage and reward investment that will help develop the U.S. economy.

Yet it seems that almost nobody likes the special treatment accorded capital gains. A number of groups, such as Common Cause, Ralph Nader's Tax Reform Research Institute and the AFL-CIO, have mounted campaigns to revise the capital gains law.

"The most glaring inequity in the present tax code is its application of different rates to different kinds of income," says Fortune magazine editor Richard Armstrong.

"It's pretty hard to justify treating a capital gain differently from ordinary income," says Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. "I've never felt there is anything more sacrosanct about the profit from the sale of an asset than from the sweat of your brow."

But then the congressman proceeds to offer justification by adding, "If people had to pay regular tax rates on capital gains, they'd never sell (their assets). You'd freeze them in their present assets."

At least one businessman suggests that rather than shrink or close the capital gains "loophole," it should be vastly widened.

In recent testimony before Mills' committee, Ross Perot, chairman of the board of Electronic Data Systems, Inc., proposed that every American be given the opportunity to accumulate a lifetime total of $100,000 in capital gains, tax free. Above the $100,000 threshold, capital gains income would be handled as it is now.

Perot likens the flow of capital in the United States to the Mississippi River. It seems inconceivable that the water in it could ever dry up.

But the Mississippi depends upon innumerable springs, creeks and small rivers. Simply by clogging and damming these tributaries, it would be possible to turn it into a ditch.

In the same fashion, he says, if we should clog the springs and other tributaries of our capital market, it, too, could turn into a dry and empty ditch at a time when we are going to need more money than has ever been raised before to modernize our industrial capacity to allow the working American, with his high school standard of living, to compete effectively with his counterparts around the world.

The current catch phrase, "Money made by money should be taxed like money made by men," is invalid, he argues, because it equates two totally different types of money. It assumes that jobs will always exist to allow "money to be made by men" and assumes that the capital money rivers will always flow.

"The most valuable resource in the American economic system is the working American," says Perot. "If we are to raise the capital requirements for our future, the working American must be given opportunity through our tax laws to become a participating capitalist."

A Lot Of Water

Speaking of inflation, in more ways than one, they recently raised an ancient covered bridge across the Housatonic River in Connecticut to protect it from rising water levels.

Cost of the project was $556,000, which was probably not bad for the four-month-long job of levering the bridge off its original foundations and inserting two-foot-thick slabs at either end.

The interesting thing is that the bridge is believed to have cost a mere $900 when it was built back in 1802.

MR. SPECTATOR

A Job Well Done

The community of Twin Falls owes a lot to Mary Helen Perry. Mrs. Perry is the principal of the Washington School. She has held that post for 15 years. She retires at the end of this school year.

But before she retires, the people of the community — parents as well as former students — will have something to do about it. Scores and scores of them will attend a reception in her honor which is slated for Washington School from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday.

The retiring official has been in the Twin Falls school system for 31 years. She has been a widow since the last day of World War II in the Pacific. On that day her husband — Loyal — an officer in the United States Navy was killed. He was on his way up in the Fidelity National Bank (now Idaho First) when he went to war. He never returned. The Japanese plane which struck the bridge of the ship on which Lieut. Perry stood, left no trace of the local man and several others nearby. Mrs. Perry was left with a memory and a family of three children to raise and support. Well, the family is raised. The memory is cherished. And Sunday afternoon those she met and helped along the way will drop in to say "thanks" in many ways.

Mary Helen will know what we mean when Mr. Spectator says, she's a great gal.

MAN OR WOMAN?

Pollsters in Germany recently asked the searching question: "If you came back to earth for a second life would you rather be a man or a woman?"

A surprising 26 per cent of the women queried said they would rather be a man the second time around. 13 per cent were indifferent and 61 per cent said they were glad to be girls.

Only 8 per cent of the men said they would prefer to be of the fair sex if they had the choice, 4 per cent had no opinion one way or the other while an overwhelming 88 per cent were glad to be men.

TODAY'S CHUCKLE:

A housewife admits that she often feels repelled by certain four-letter words. Such as cook, wash, iron, dust, work.

Looks like Watergate was on the agenda.

Policy effect unknown

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There is growing concern whether the political maelstrom known as the Watergate will permanently hamper President Nixon in his conduct of foreign policy. No one will really know the answer for some time.

At one extreme are those who believe that a politically crippled President will find his effectiveness in international affairs diminished greatly, despite the fact that his wounds are of domestic origin and to some extent self-inflicted.

At the other extreme are those who hold that once the President has fulfilled his vow to clean house, he will find no great difficulty in resuming progress on his "task of negotiations."

Nixon's foreign policy adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, acknowledged this week that the Watergate could seriously affect U.S. foreign relations, and urged the nation to "forego an orgy of recriminations." This undoubtedly foreshadows an appeal to Congress and the public to close ranks in support of a foreign policy which has been generally applauded during the past four years.

Much will depend on the answers to two major questions:

Analysis

—How will foreign leaders, particularly in Russia and China, assess the authority of the President to make new commitments or fulfill old ones with solid public backing?

—Will congressmen, many smarting under what they consider executive disdain, take advantage of the situation to enhance support for projects such as troop withdrawals from Europe and major neglect of Asia which would undercut presidential objectives in those two areas? Very few officials, congressmen or diplomats believe Moscow or Peking will seek to take advantage of Nixon's current troubles to score short-term unilateral gains. The majority believe that the two major Communist powers will continue to pursue the paths opened at the Moscow and Peking summit conferences. For purely pragmatic reasons of self-interest — economic advantages and the easing of tensions that might provoke nuclear war.

Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, who is coming here in June, and Chinese Premier Chou En-lai presumably are more concerned over whether Nixon will be hamstrung by the Congress in carrying out his program.

Japan and U.S. allies in Europe also will be uncertain for a time of the effect of Watergate on American policies in which they are vitally interested.

Nixon's problems are complicated by continuation of an unsettled war in Southeast Asia and increasing peril of conflict in the Middle East.

On the basis of past history the Watergate probably will make it more difficult for Nixon to achieve the rapid progress he had hoped for on the international front but will not have a really crippling effect. Things are probably neither as bad as they look to some, nor as hopeful as they look to others.

There has been considerable criticism of the alleged arrogance and insensitivity of some members of the White House staff who appear to be in a state of shock and there has been a continuous tendency on the part of the administration to brush off the press as an irresponsible nuisance.

With some new faces on the White House staff and evidence of some trace of presidential humility, the odds are that Nixon can weather the Watergate without serious and lasting damage to his foreign policy. At least, that is the majority view among diplomats and officials at the moment.

Aides' claims denied

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House denied Wednesday allegations by some Nixon aides that they had informed the President several months ago of the extensive scope of the Watergate scandal.

Breaking his lengthy silence on the affair, Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said implications that the President himself had failed to act promptly to expose wrongdoing by his subordinates were "not correct."

He also confirmed that the daily 8:15 a.m. meeting of senior Nixon aides which has been presided over by chief-of-staff H.R. Haldeman for the last four and a half years was no longer being held.

But he sought to characterize the Nixon White House — racked by the greatest scandal in its existence — as proceeding with business as usual and said that the President himself was "a man at work and involved in something taking up a great deal of his time."

Ziegler said no resignations had yet been submitted or called for by the President as a result of the bugging of the national Democratic headquarters last June 17 and subsequent attempts to cover it up. But he did not dispute widespread reports that several ranking aides would be leaving in the near future.

According to published reports quoting friends of White House counsel John W. Dean III, Dean said he informed Nixon last December that involvement by White House and campaign officials in political espionage activities was much more extensive than he had originally thought.

John D. Ehrlichman, Nixon's senior domestic adviser and one of his closest political associates, said in a public interview Tuesday that he had urged full disclosure of all details of the Watergate affair as early as last August.

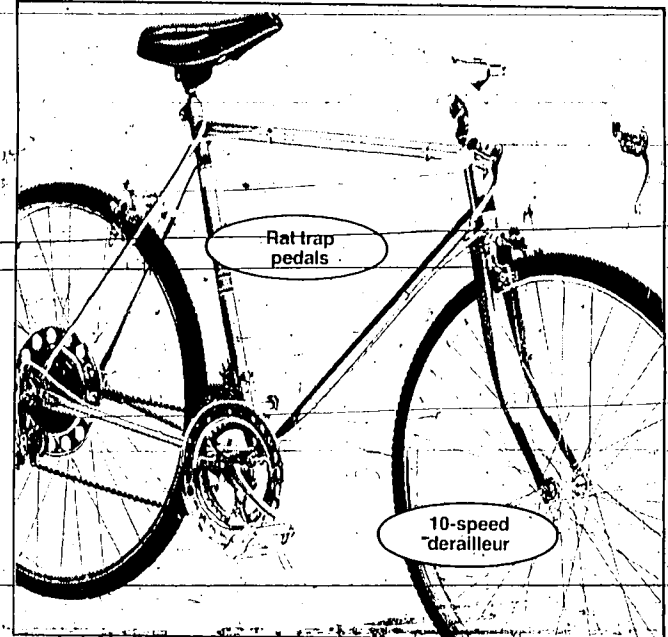

"Any suggestion that President Nixon had the knowledge contained in these reports, or that somebody warned him of this matter is incorrect," Ziegler said.

Gem prison site picked

BOISE (UPI) — The State Parks Board Wednesday voted in favor of turning the Idaho State Penitentiary into a state historical park when the prisoners are moved to new facilities.

Arthur Hart, director of the State Historical Museum, told the board that turning the site into an historical park would be "a unique opportunity to preserve and develop an historical site of national interest."

He said there is "nothing quite like it in the entire United States."

The Parks Board agreed to provide assistance to carry out the plans to preserve the stone structure that dates from 1870.

The board also voted to discontinue a water and sewer program at Heyburn State Park in Northern Idaho.

A motion by Bill Stollman of Lewiston called for discontin-

Car shortage aired to PUC

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho's Public Utilities Commission today received reports of what may be a "rail car shortage of unusual severity" in Northern Idaho for grain shipping.

R. L. Henry, administrator of the Idaho Transportation Council told the PUC that the supply of cars needed to load out wheat appeared to be "tight" in Southern Idaho but no where as critical as the situation found in the northern portion of the state.

"Even on the basis of incomplete survey returns the proportions of the shortage of grain cars can't be mistaken," Henry said.

Couple found dead

CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — An autopsy will be performed to determine the exact cause of the deaths of Canyon County Treasurer and her husband who were found dead in their Caldwell home.

Canyon County prosecutor Robert Ford said the bodies of Zae Shaffer, 48, and her husband, Gerald, 53, were found Wednesday by Deputy County Treasurer Glenydene Whiteley.

Officials said Mrs. Whiteley tried to phone the Shaffer home when Mrs. Shaffer did not arrive at work. She then went to the home to see why there was no answer.

A note was found in the kitchen of the home addressed to the Shaffer children, written by Shaffer. Police said the children are grown and no longer live at home.

Yost said the family car was found running in the garage and the door connecting the garage and the house was open allowing the fumes to enter and fill the split-level home.

Mrs. Shaffer had been county treasurer for 15 years, taking office by appointment in 1958.

Road opens

BOISE (UPI) — The state highway between Lowman and Stanley will be opened to two way traffic again Friday morning.

For several years the State Highway Department has tried to open the road in time for the Memorial Day weekend. This year, because of the relatively mild winter, the department decided to open the route early.

Maintenance crews have been working for the past three weeks to clear rocks and other material from the road. The six mile gravel section past Lowman has been graded and is in good condition.

Officials cautioned motorists using this route to watch for rolling rock or rocks on the road.

Classes resume for IF school

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (UPI) — While firemen began investigation into the cause of the fire that gutted the Idaho Falls Central Junior High School, teachers and administrators made plans to start classes again.

Teachers agreed to hold classes on a double session basis in the Clair E. Gale Junior High beginning Monday.

Later Wednesday the teachers met in the vocational arts building of the burned out school, the only section remaining — to sort through books and materials salvaged from the fire.

Details on busing students, supplying materials and books have not been completed.

Also unsettled is the amount of money the school board and insurance company will agree on.

The insurance policy covering the school said the value of the structure would be returned based on building the school in the same location and in generally the same condition.

The state board of education has said the replacement for the 1913 structure cannot be built at the present site. The district and insurance company will have to work out where the new structure will be built and what size it will be.

Two men still missing

LEWISTON, Idaho (UPI) — The search was on again today, as strong as ever, for those two men missing on the Snake River south of here.

Nez Perce County Sheriff's deputies said they have not let up in the search for Edward Williams, 44, and his cousin, Jack Bowman, 44, despite widespread belief the two were swept downstream and drowned in the treacherous currents of the river.

The two were in a riverboat piloted by Bowman which capsized and sank in the Imnaha Rapids about 50 miles south of here Monday afternoon. Six others aboard the craft were later rescued from the freezing river.

Four boats were on the Snake today, combing the rugged banks for any signs of the two, and several law enforcement officers and volunteers scoured the river.

Searchers, however, were more cautious as they moved up and down the river, following what was almost a second-tragedy Wednesday afternoon.

Authorities said a Nez Perce County Sheriff's boat with seven persons aboard crashed into a rock and swirled helplessly in the Imnaha Rapids after losing its steering mechanism.

POWs rap protesters

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (UPI) — Air Force Capt. Fred Mc Murray, a recently released POW says there was anger and resentment on the part of fellow POW's towards the anti-war protesters.

Mc Murray made the comments during a North Idaho College booster luncheon. He said Joan Baez particularly shocked him with the songs she sang.

Mc Murray was a navigator on an F-4 jet which was shot down north of Haiphong last September. He was among the last group of former POW's to be released.

Mc Murray said he felt a personal pride and commitment to keep the code of conduct during his imprisonment.

He said his treatment in comparison to the other POW's was light, but did say he was struck with fists and kicked in the stomach.

Several other search boats, though, came to the rescue of the craft containing County Sheriff Bud Huddleston and Williams' 14-year-old son.

The search for Williams, a former state official and project director with the Pacific Northwest Regional Commission, has extended downstream with greater emphasis than before as authorities fear the bodies were "carried several miles downstream."

Some rivermen involved in the search said Wednesday with the 25 mile an hour currents, and the 36-degree water, it would have been nearly impossible for Williams and Bowman to survive the ordeal.

Authorities said it may be as much as 10 days to three weeks before the bodies surface, if in fact that was the fate of the two.

A Free Press Protects Your Free Speech...

Judges are jailing reporters with increasing frequency, because they refuse to reveal news sources. The result can only be a drying up of these sources of information and impede your right to know what's happening in your government.

Free speech and a free press are guaranteed by the Constitution to the people generally — not to any individual or business.

Everyone also has the right to know what's being offered in the Marketplace. The right of choice in all goods and services keeps the system of competition working for everyone's progress.

Consequently, when our freedom of the press is restricted, your free speech is also restricted.

Your free speech depends on a free press.

Here's What Hugo Black

Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court said about the importance of a Free Press:

"In the First Amendment the founding fathers gave the press the protection it must have to fulfill its essential role in our democracy. The press was to serve the governed, not the governors. The government's power to censor the press was abolished so that the press would remain forever free to censure the government. The press was protected so that it could bare the secrets of government and inform the people."

Here's What John F. Kennedy

35th President of The United States said about the importance of a Free Press:

"It is never pleasant to read things that are not agreeable news, but I would say that it is an invaluable arm of the Presidency — to check really on what is going on in the administration. And more things came to my attention that cause me concern or give me information. So I think that there is a terrific disadvantage not to have the abrasive quality of the press applied to you daily, to an administration, even though we never like it, and even though we wish they didn't write it and even though we disapprove, there isn't any doubt that we could not do the job at all in a free society without a very, very active press."

The next time you get mad at a news story, remember that a free press provides you with the information that keeps our country free.

Runaway gas eruptions plague town

WILLIAMSBURG, Mich. (UPI) — Spiraling concentrations of highly flammable natural gas today continued to infect this small community. Officials forecasted a breakthrough—one way or another—in the next few days.

Amoco Production Co. workers Wednesday successfully sealed the runaway gas well which was the suspected culprit of gas eruptions in this village for more than a week. However, William Mullendore, a spokesman for the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, said no letup in the already present gas-and-mud spewing geysers was expected for at least three days.

"The gas already in the ground will still come out of the ground," Mullendore said. "It's not like turning off a faucet."

Mullendore said the only thing that can be assured was "no more gas would be leaking from that hole."

Grand Traverse County sheriff's deputies reported another gas leakage two miles east of Traverse City, the closest the highly dangerous gas had come to the area's largest city.

Sgt. Tom Schmuckel said the new gas leak was discovered in a water well. Mullendore said more gas and less mud and water was spurting from the potholes, heightening the fire threat in the fragile situation.

"Some of the first craters are blowing practically pure gas at this point," Mullendore said. "One hundred sacks of cement were forced down the well to form a solid plug Wednesday and Amoco officials said casing was to be put all the way down the shaft to insure 'no chance of a gas leak.'"

DNR officials said there would be a three-day waiting period before any effect could be measured in the community, but that would only be the case if the AMOCO drilling site was the original source of the problem.

"We can't be sure that the well was the source of the gas until we see noticeable effects," Mullendore said.

But Mullendore added if it proved not to be the source that was an important fact too. "We'd have to start looking all over again," he said. "But this time we don't have such a logical source."

Hush money paid to conspirators

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two key Watergate conspirators—one who was never on the payroll and another who had been fired—got $3,000 monthly "continuation of salary" payments from the Nixon campaign last summer, grand jury testimony suggests.

The money allegedly began with E. Howard Hunt Jr. and G. Gordon Liddy at the time the grand jury first was investigating the bugging of Democratic party headquarters weeks before either one was charged in connection with the bizarre plot.

The testimony, obtained by columnist Jack Anderson who made it available to UPI, further suggests that Hunt, at least, felt the money may have been intended "as a means of keeping us quiet."

The grand jury, which heard the testimony from another Watergate conspirator, James W. McCord Jr., last week is known to be investigating now whether there may have been attempts to obstruct justice by paying hush money to the seven men eventually convicted for the Watergate raid.

McCord related the money story at length, beginning with a call he said he received from Hunt's wife, Dorothy, in early August last year six weeks after he and four Miami-area men were arrested at the Watergate.

she said, "We are due to get the money."

McCord said he was getting the money from the Committee to Re-Elect the President essentially in the form of continuation of salary payments, and Liddy is getting it and in effect, wouldn't you like to do so?" McCord testified.

"And I said, 'Well, it's very peculiar to them. What do they have in mind?' And she said, 'Well, why don't you ask for the amount that we're getting which is $3,000 a month, continuation of salary.'"

McCord said he and Liddy say "we're altogether altruistic," McCord quoted Mrs. Hunt as replying. "Whether it's a genuine interest in sharing the responsibility for us, because we had worked for them and we were now in trouble, or whether they intended it as a means of keeping us quiet."

McCord testified that though the sum offered was greater than his monthly pay as security chief for the Nixon campaign, he told Mrs. Hunt it would be "useless" for the campaign to try to buy his silence, because he would "follow the dictates of my own conscience" and fight the case.

Neither man was charged with any crime until Sept. 15, nor was either working for the campaign. Hunt, a former White House consultant, had never been on the campaign payroll; while Liddy had been fired as finance counsel June 28 for refusing to talk to the FBI about Watergate.

Sources close to the case have described Mrs. Hunt—who died in a Chicago plane crash—as the "big woman" for getting speaking of Hunt and herself—that we are getting money from the Committee to Re-Elect the President essentially in the form of continuation of salary payments, and delivered it to the men.

Court hears Mitchell

PENSACOLA, Fla. (UPI) — Former Attorney General John N. Mitchell testified in a federal court hearing Wednesday that he was present at a meeting of the Committee to Re-elect President Nixon at which electronic surveillance was discussed.

U.S. District Judge Winston Arnoff cut off an attorney's questions about who directed the discussion and what group was to be the object of the wiretapping.

Mitchell appeared as a reluctant witness at a pretrial hearing for seven members and one sympathizer of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War. They are accused of plotting to violently disrupt the Republican National Convention at Miami Beach last year. The defense had subpoenaed Mitchell in an effort to establish a link between the Watergate bugging and alleged electronic eavesdropping on the eight defendants.

"I have no recollection who the officers of the VVAW were. I have no recollection of any electronic surveillance of such people," Mitchell said in answer to a question from defense attorney Morton Stavis.

When Stavis asked Mitchell if the Committee to Re-elect the President had an intelligence unit, Mitchell responded, "Yes, sir, every political campaign has an intelligence unit."

Mitchell was head of the committee until resigning shortly after the arrest of the Watergate defendants. When Stavis asked him whether he had ever been present at a meeting of the committee at which electronic surveillance was discussed, Mitchell said, "Yes, I was."

Arnoff refused to let Stavis pursue the questioning on the point.

Mitchell flew to Pensacola to testify and left immediately after spending 77 minutes in the witness chair in federal court.

One of his most uncomfortable moments came when Arnoff demanded to know why Mitchell had failed to appear Monday at the time required by a court summons.

"I have no real good answer, your honor, it is complicated," Mitchell said.

Mitchell said the subpoena had been served on him when he emerged from a grand jury session in New York last Friday and faced a crowd of newsmen.

"I thought at the time it was like a lot of the other subpoenas which have been served on the attorney general; 99 per cent of which get quashed," Mitchell said.

Idaho awarded grant

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, says the Idaho Department of Public Lands has been awarded $19,000 from the U.S. Department of Interior for improvements on the Boise River.

The grant, secured under the land and water conservation fund, will be matched by state funds.

Census figures most successful

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Census Bureau figures it missed about 5.3 million persons when it took the 1970 census but still considers the count its most successful.

"The 1970 census was probably the best ever taken and...like its predecessors, was imperfect," said Acting Census Director Robert L. Hagan Wednesday.

Hagan said one factor which caused census takers to miss some persons was the problem of getting counters to work in high crime areas.

"It was more difficult for our census takers, even though they were local residents, to work in cities, particularly inner cities," he said.

The census director said better counting techniques helped lower the error rate to about 2.5 per cent in the 1970 count. But he said changing social conditions, offset the technical improvements.

"These conditions included increased resistance because of changing life styles in the country, more alienation and distrust of authority...more organized attempts to protest the census," he said.

The 1970 count was 203.4 million U.S. residents. When military personnel and their dependents plus citizens living abroad were included, the total came to 209.6 million.

Although the bureau now thinks it knows how many persons it missed, the official 1970 population total will not be revised. The bureau is usually allowed to report only persons who are actually counted.

Oklahoma passes death penalty

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — The Oklahoma Senate approved a mandatory death penalty for capital offenses Wednesday night. An amendment to permit live television coverage of executions was narrowly defeated.

The senate voted 38-4 to execute all persons convicted of premeditated murder.

The television amendment, by Sen. Gene Stipe, D-McAlester, lost by a vote of 24-20. It would have required executions to be held in the courtyard of the county where the crime occurred with full coverage by newspapers, radio and television.

"How can we say this is a good law if we are going to keep it secret and not let the public see it?" Stipe said. "If the death penalty is such a good thing, let's put it on television where everybody can see it."

Stipe, who voted for the bill, said it would be possible to construct portable electric chairs or gas chambers that could be moved from county to county.

The state house previously approved a different death penalty bill. A conference committee now will attempt to negotiate a compromise bill. Gov. David Hall, a former prosecutor, has called reinstatement of the death penalty a key part of his legislative program.

Jerome Scouts set cleanup

JEROME — Jerome County Scouts will observe the "Keep America Beautiful" cleanup day Saturday.

All troops of both Boy and Girl Scouts will be participating and will concentrate on county highways. The youth and scout leaders will meet at 10 a.m. Saturday at the Presbyterian Church. After the cleanup a chili feed will be served at the Presbyterian Church for all workers.

Everyone is asked to bring a sack lunch for the noon meal.

Russo insults general

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Gen. Alexander Haig, international troubleshooter for President Nixon—and Henry Kissinger, got a friendly greeting from Daniel Ellsberg at the Pentagon Papers trial but Ellsberg's confidant followed the general into the street yelling insults.

"Genocidal warrior" called Anthony Russo, trailing Haig and trying to give him a copy of the leaked papers.

The general appeared amused.

Haig, who has made frequent trips to Southeast Asia and elsewhere as part of Nixon's peace negotiations, appeared at the trial Wednesday as a witness for the prosecution.

He downgraded the importance and knowledge of two former government officials who testified for the defense, former deputy assistant secretary of defense Morton H. Halperin and former State Department intelligence analyst Allen S. Whiting.

The general appeared in full uniform, glittering with decorations and ribbons, shortly after returning from a presidential assignment to study conditions in Vietnam after the ceasefire.

MR. AND MRS. JOHNNIE RIDGWAY

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A neighbor of mine loves to sew, and she has made some lovely things. She made a beautiful dress and bonnet for my daughter's fourth birthday, so I took the child to a photography studio and had a picture taken of her in that outfit. Then I bought a frame for it and presented it to my neighbor to show my appreciation.

She seemed pleased and placed the picture on her piano. A few months later I noticed that she had placed a picture of her dog in that frame, and my daughter's picture was nowhere to be seen. I finally told her that as long as she wasn't displaying my daughter's picture, I'd like to have it back. She said, "Certainly." Then she got my daughter's picture out of a drawer and handed it to me.

silence

I said, "How about the frame?" She replied, "Oh, you can buy another one for 75 cents."

Abby, I was so hurt. That frame cost me $1.50. I didn't want to start an argument with her so I just kept my mouth shut.

What would you have done?
DEAR HURT: I'd have kept my mouth shut.

DEAR ABBY: A couple, merely acquaintances of a few years, have dropped in to see us on three different occasions. They appear to be like other people, except for the husband.

He asks to take a bath the minute they step inside the door. The first time we thought nothing of it because they were on their way home from a day's trip in their car, even tho their home is only 5 miles from ours.

My wife and I have never been in their home but we understand it has all the conveniences of ours, including a tub and shower.

On two other occasions when they had come directly from their home, he again asked to take a bath. After the third bath I concluded that he must be some kind of a nut. Needless to say we have never returned their visits and probably never will.

What do you suppose makes our ordinary bathing facilities so fascinating that the husband cannot wait to use his own?
PERPLEXED IN SANTA ANA

DEAR PERPLEXED: I don't know, but I surely would have asked him after the second bath.

DEAR ABBY: I read in your column of a man and woman who seemed to be able to adjust to the fact that they have grown heavy together and are still happy. I identified with the woman, as I have been in the 200s since I was 16 years old. One thing, tho, I did not identify with was the closing statement: "Who would have us?"

I am sure there are many heavy women who firmly believe that they will never marry because they are fat. I was in the 200s when we married last year. I was lamenting the fact that I was being measured for a size 22½ wedding gown instead of a size 12 or 14. My precious husband-to-be took Big Me into his very trim arms and said: "The things about you I find most beautiful are the things that will never change. Weight can go up or down, but your love for other people, your kindness, your availability for those in need, your love for God and for me—these are beauty, and I find you most beautiful." Needless to say I cried a bucketful of tears for so understanding and loving a man.

May I offer a little advice for the overweight? Use every asset you have regardless of how heavy you are. Keep your hair well groomed, your face nicely made up, wear clothes that flatter you, and concentrate on good manners. Most of all, give of yourself to others in your community or in your church. Don't hibernate! Someone also may find you beauty.

Thank you, Abby, for the opportunity to say what I have felt, and a special thank-you for the chance to praise my husband openly before the world.

TF miss, Ridgway wed in Jerome rites

TWIN FALLS — Vivian Hudelson and Johnnie Ridgway were married in a double-ring evening ceremony in Jerome April 14, the bride's 19th birthday anniversary.

We are indebted to our old friend Easley Blackwood for an interesting bit of deception with an amusing result. At least North and South were amused. East and West are still mad.

West opened the fair of hearts and East's queen was allowed to hold the trick. East returned the six-spot and West won with the jack after South ducked again.

South had seen plenty of signs of trouble after the heart opening and he used a little false carding for no good reason except that strange things do happen at times. He dropped the five of hearts at trick one and the eight of hearts at trick two.

After his jack held the second heart trick, West was sure that his partner, not South, was holding the three of hearts. West was one of those suit preference addicts and returned the deuce of hearts to tell his partner about the club ace.

He could probably have shown this same suit preference by leading the nine but West was so sure that his partner held that three of hearts that he fell right into South's trap.

The extra heart trick was all South needed to make this impossible contract.

Committee chairman

FORREST HYMAS, chairman of the Jerome County Land Use Planning Committee, addresses committee members at a meeting Tuesday night.

I 80 interchange planning heard

By GEORGE WILEY
Times-News writer

JEROME — Development of the U.S. 93 Interstate 80 interchange area was the chief topic of discussion Tuesday night at a meeting of the Jerome County Land Use Planning Committee.

Don Runberg, realty specialist for the Shoshone district of the Bureau of Land Management, presented a bureau landscaper's proposal for development of the southwest corner of the interchange which included a motel/hotel, a truck warehouse, single and multi-family dwellings, a golf course, a school and other facilities.

Runberg said the BLM, which owns the land on which the interchange is located, had the plans drawn up in the late 1960s after an application from Standard Oil Co. for a service station raised concern over development of the area.

"This plan is not based on known facts, but upon the planner's professional expertise," Runberg said, stressing that it was purely a proposal and in no way binding.

Twin Falls City Manager Jean Milar expressed concern that unregulated development could contaminate the aquifer from which the city domestic water supply is drawn.

Noting that Twin Falls draws much of its water from Alpheus Creek adjacent to the Blue Lakes Country Club on the north side of the Snake River Canyon, Milar said it was possible that use of septic tanks near the interchange might pollute the underground aquifer from which Alpheus Creek is fed.

"We strongly advocate that any wastes developed in this area be exported because of the threat to our water supply," Milar said.

Milar said that personally he favors the use of the canyon rim for residential development rather than the development of prime agricultural lands south of Twin Falls. "But regardless of how the lands are used," he said, "the city of Twin Falls is only concerned with the water supply."

Forrest Hymas, chairman of the volunteer Jerome County Land Use Planning Committee, outlined various alternatives for management of the interchange area, along with advantages and disadvantages of each.

Among the alternatives were retention of the land by BLM, sale of the land to commercial developers, and retention of the land until a comprehensive plan between the BLM and Jerome County could be completed.

While retention of the land might mean better planning in the long run, Hymas said, he also noted that retention could force premature development of private lands north of the interchange site and would delay tax revenues accruing to Jerome County from any development.

BLM's Runberg told the

Kimberly residents lose water supply

KIMBERLY — Kimberly residents were cut off from their water supply for about two and one-half hours Tuesday.

According to Robert Vawser, public works supervisor, a 50-year-old abandoned service line was struck by Daley Construction Co. equipment while installing underground telephone line for Mountain Bell at about 4:45 p.m.

The water valve shut off was pulled out of the main line, flooding the surrounding area.

Vawser said, "We pumped the water into nearby irrigation ditches," he said, "We had to shut everything off for awhile."

"This was no fault of the construction company," Vawser said. "They have a line locator which did not pick up the pipe because of the amount of rust. Evidently the line had never been properly disconnected," he said.

Vawser said there are probably other such abandoned lines in the city.

Cancer-treatment drugs dangerous

VAN NUYS, Calif. (UPI) — Many cancer treatment drugs approved by the government are sometimes dangerous to patients, are largely ineffectual and have been known to produce cancer themselves in laboratory animals, a cancer researcher testified Tuesday.

Dr. Dean Burk, a biochemist and chief of the cytotoxicology section of the National Cancer Institute, testified specifically about the drug "laetrile" which has been used as a cancer "cure" although not approved by the Food and Drug Administration.

Burk was a defense witness at the sentencing hearing for Harry Howard, 58, who pleaded guilty to furnishing laetrile as a cure for a woman afflicted by cancer.

In earlier testimony, a prosecution witness said laetrile had no value in the treatment of cancer.

Burk read from the stand a letter he had written to Dr. Frank J. Hauscher, Jr., director of the National Cancer Institute, about cancer drugs. "Ironically," Burk wrote, "virtually all of the chemotherapeutic anticancer agents, now approved by the FDA for use or testing on human cancer patients are: 1, highly or variously toxic at applied dosages; 2, markedly immunosuppressive, that is destructive of the patient's native resistance to a variety of diseases, including cancer; and 3, usually highly carcinogenic in rats and mice, producing cancers in a wide variety of body organs."

Gem water outlook little changed

TWIN FALLS — Water supply outlook statistics in Idaho show little change for April as a result of nearly normal snow fall in March.

The April report of the Soil Conservation Service and state snow survey supervisor, Jack Wilson, states the snow pack is above normal south of Snake River and below normal north of the river in Central Idaho.

Officials say the highest water outlook is on the Malad River watershed which is 229 per cent of normal. Lowest in the state is the 17 per cent of average on the Palouse River.

Soil moisture conditions are about the same as in March with low elevation soils having gained slightly and higher elevations holding about the same. In general, the report shows, soil moisture is below normal throughout the state.

Fall and winter precipitation has been well below normal in Idaho except for the Snake River Plain. Reservoir storage is good in all major irrigation storage reservoirs but dry spring weather in early April may result in a drawdown early in the irrigation season which will prevent some reservoirs from filling. Most reservoirs had a good carry over from last year.

A snow depth accumulation report on 12 selected snow courses around the state show only the White Knob course on the Big Lost River, Magic Mountain on Salmon Falls Creek and Somsen Ranch, Blackfoot River watershed are above normal this year in snow and water content.

The others including Benton Spring, Cookout, Pierce Ranger Station, Big Creek Summit, Bogus Basin, Atlanta Summit, Galena, Moose Creek and Island Park Range from 45 per cent to 90 per cent of normal.

White Knob was about 140 per cent of normal in February; Magic Mountain about 160 per cent of normal in January; and Somsen ranch climbed to 135 per cent of normal in April. All remained well above normal through the season.

SES officials predict an adequate irrigation supply this summer on streams and in storage reservoirs providing good management is practiced. A carryover at the end of the season is urged wherever possible.

Some watersheds in this area on a basis of the percentage of snow and water this year as compared to last year and the 1953 to 1967 average include:

Little Wood River, 103 per cent of last year and 89 per cent of average; Fish Creek, 140 per cent of last year and 110 per cent of average; Big Wood River, 63 per cent of last year and 73 per cent of average; Raft River, 86 per cent of last year and 129 per cent of average.

Salmon Falls Creek is 82 per cent of last year and 121 per cent of average. The Bruneau River is 88 per cent of last year and 117 per cent of average. Owyhee is 124 per cent of last year and 135 per cent of average. Watersheds on the Boise River show only 33 per cent of last year and 73 per cent of average.

Reservoirs in the area include Salmon Falls Creek with a usable capacity of 182,000 acre feet and 108,000 acre feet in storage this year compared to 120,000 last year and an average of 33,400 acre feet.

Magic Reservoir, with a capacity of 191,500 acre feet has 140,400 in storage, had 158,800 last year and a 119,500 average. Fish Creek at Carey has a capacity of 13,000 acre feet with 6,100 in storage and 12,200 at this time last year.

Little Wood Reservoir with a capacity of 30,000 acre feet has 20,500 in storage compared to 22,400 last year and an average of 15,400.

Owyhee with a capacity of 715,000 acre feet has 702,000 in storage and had 695,600 last year with an average of 476,800.

Snow depths and water content as of April 1 on snow courses in the area show Salmon Falls Creek courses included 60 inches of snow and 21.4 inches of water on the Magic Mountain course with a 17.5 average water content; 77 inches of snow and 24.2 inches of snow at Hummingbird Springs with a 22 inch average water content.

Lowest snow depth on the watershed is 17 inches on the Shoshone Basin course with 6.7 inches of water and an average for April of only 2.5. Deadline Ridge had 68 inches April 1, with 26 inches of water and an average 11.7 inches of water.

Goose Creek shows 63 inches of snow at Hostetter and 21 inches of water with the average 18.4 inches of water.

Raft River drainage snow courses include Howell Canyon snow course with 77 inches of snow, 25.9 inches of water and an average of 24.1 inches of water; George Peak with 109 inches of snow, 36 inches of water and no average but 31 inches of water last year. The Boy Scout course has 63 inches of snow and 19.9 of water with an average of 14.8 inches.

On the Bruneau River, Pole Creek has 74 inches of snow, 23.4 of water and an average of 19.7 inches of water.

Big Wood River snow courses, and measurements include Couch Summit, 48

Figure 1. The effect of the initial concentration of the monomer on the polymerization of  $\alpha$ -methylstyrene initiated by  $\text{BuLi}$  in THF at  $-78^\circ\text{C}$ . The concentration of the initiator was  $0.001\text{ mol/L}$ . The polymerization was terminated by the addition of methanol. The polymerization was carried out in a 100 mL three-necked round-bottomed flask equipped with a magnetic stirrer, thermometer, and nitrogen inlet. The monomer was added to the flask containing the initiator solution. The reaction mixture was stirred for 10 min. The polymerization was terminated by the addition of methanol. The polymer was isolated by precipitation into methanol. The polymer was dried under vacuum at  $40^\circ\text{C}$  for 24 h. The polymer was characterized by  $^1\text{H}$  NMR and GPC.

ABA taps Walton as part of underclassman draft

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American Basketball Association, touching all bases in its college draft, leaned heavily toward the guard positions in strengthening their franchises for the 1973-74 season.

Having held two cover rounds last January, the ABA went through 10 rounds of picks Wednesday and capped the selections with two rounds of special underclassman choices. All-American Bill Walton of UCLA, a junior, was the first player picked on the underclassman draft. San Diego has until Sept. 9 to sign Walton.

After that date, the other nine teams in the league have permission to negotiate with the 6-11 star center. Dwight Lamar of Southwest Louisiana, a 6-1 guard, was the first player picked in the regular phase of the draft and the San Diego Q's quickly grabbed the ace backcourt man. Memphis then went for a home product, 6-2 Larry Finch of Memphis State, San Antonio (formerly Dallas) picked 6-3 Mike D'Antoni of Marshall and New York went for a big 6-6 guard Doug Collins, a U.S. Olympian from Illinois State.

Collins was the No. 1 choice in Wednesday's National Basketball Association draft when he went to the Philadelphia 76ers.

Then a slew of forwards were picked. Virginia selected first and grabbed 6-7 Allen Bristow of the NIT champion Virginia Tech Gobblers. Denver then chose 6-6 Ed Ratleff of Long Beach State, Indiana went for 6-4 Steve Downing of Oklahoma and Utah nabbed 6-8 Ronnie Robinson of NCAA runner-up Memphis State.

Kentucky had the ninth pick and went for 6-3 guard Louis Nelson of Washington and Carolina was keen on 6-8 Mel Davis of St. John's (N.Y.).

In last January's selections, Utah landed three players. Alan Adams of Oklahoma, Jim Baker of Nevada, and Robert Parrish of Centenary.

New York picked Jim Brewer of Minnesota and Bill Schaeffer of St. John's (N.Y.), while Kentucky, in its lone pick, took Ernie McGregory of Providence. Memphis chose and signed Larry Kenon of Memphis State and selected Ray Lewis of Los Angeles State.

The probable starters are Utah State forwards Bob Luriski (6-7) and Jim Boatwright (6-8), guards Eddie Trail from Utah and Doug Richards from Brigham Young, and either Jay Bunker (6-6) from BYU, Lafayette Love (6-10) from LSU or Westminster's Doug Tate (6-9) at center.

The other Utah players are USU guard Ken Thompson, BYU forward Brian Ambroz, forward Riley Wimberly and guard Brady Small from Weber State and guard Willie Haves from Westminster.

"They're coming here expecting some tough games," Foster said. "If they think the first one's going to be easy, we'll have a surprise for them. These kids are good. I just hope they don't overreact to the Russians."

Boatwright gets starting nod for Utahns against Russians

SAIT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Co-coaches Bill Foster and Gene Visscher have their own impossible dream — defeating the Soviet national basketball team here Friday night.

"We know it can be done," said Foster, "who is the University of Utah head coach. 'Now we just have to figure out how to do it. They lost here in 1971 and it could happen again.'"

The last time the USSR national team barnstormed through the United States it won 11 straight before coming to the Utah Special Events Center. Then, another Utah collegiate all-star team dumped them 94-91.

The 1972 Olympic champions arrived here early Wednesday afternoon and practiced in a one-hour closed session, trying to adjust to the 5,000 foot elevation.

"We've got it in the back of our minds that we can beat them," Foster said. "I just wish everyone would quit reminding us of 1971. Maybe the elevation and our lack of big names will help us."

The Utah team of "unknowns" doesn't have a Bill

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY — he or she will be one of those charming, young people who seems to be always on the negative side. You can be sure to give the right diet and teach to laugh more. Meet with kindness, but firmness, so that all the fine talent in this chart will come to the fore, and much success and happiness will be achieved throughout the lifetime. The good psychiatrist especially, could easily be in this chart. Music lessons could bring out a genius here, too.

Some medical men say a breast cancer is usually about 8 years old before it's large enough to be felt. Please note that Secret Service agents are trained to shoot with either hand. That citizen who drinks less milk than any other in the world is the average Filipino. Average Finn drinks the most. Can you think of any word bands "underground" that begins and ends with the same three letters? There are experts who devoutly believe, you know, that one can ward off a head cold by weeping, copious antiseptic tears.

Q "Is there any society in the world history in which the women rather than the men have been the heaviest booze drinkers?"

A Not one.

Q "Isn't the Scandinavian airline known as SAS the property of Denmark?"

A Yes, and of Norway and Sweden, too, jointly.

DEATH IN PAIRS

People who die of carbon monoxide poisoning tend to do so in pairs. At night in private romantic places. Most usually, they leave the engines running so their car heaters will work. And except for the suicides, it's likely they fall love-love asleep, tired but contented. Or so the U.S. Public Health statisticians disclose. It's also true, incidentally, that the average age of those cars in which citizens so die is 7 1/2 years. Average age of cars in general is 4 1/2 years.

Am asked the first words ever written by an airplane with smoke in the sky. They were "Daily Mail." Major John Sayago, the bright boy in England who invented sky writing, told that ad for the London newspaper over Epsom Downs on Derby Day in 1922.

SOUND OF COLOR

Another of those poetic observers, who claim all sounds connote colors, insists. Squealing tires are orange. River rapids are blue. A cat's purr is gray. Whine of a chain saw is yellow. A cricket's chirp is green. And breaking glass makes a noise that's crimson. All right, that's enough.

Fact that a big whale will eat about 2,000 pounds of meat daily is not the only reason few people keep pet whales, but it's one, certainly.

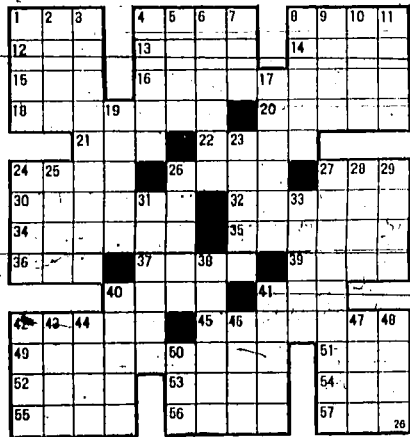

As for varicose veins, natives who sit on the ground rather than on chairs rarely suffer such, studies show.

Were you aware there's a spice and herb boom? Kitchen mechanics hereabouts are quaying up their dishes of late far more than previously. Must be. The import of fancy spices and herbs has been up about 100 percent in the last 10 years, I'm told.

Idaho labor market shows improved trend in 1973

BOISE — Idaho Department of Employment statistics indicate an improving labor market in Idaho.

According to the agency's April bulletin, total employment increased by 2,000 in March over the 287,000 employed in February. Most of the increase was in the agricultural sector which accounted for 2,500 of the new jobs.

Unemployment during March fell off by 1,400 to 17,400 as compared to the 18,800 unemployed during February. Compared with year-ago figures unemployment in March 1973 decreased by 2,200 under March 1972.

The unadjusted rate of unemployment dropped half a percentage point in March to a year low of 5.6 per cent.

Most of the gain in agricultural employment was based on seasonal labor requirements as "spring ground preparation got under way," the bulletin said.

Significant increases in nonmanufacturing employment, chiefly in the retail trade and construction industries, were offset by declines in manufacturing employment.

Total nonmanufacturing employment rose 1,600 in March over February and 8,300 over March 1972. However, manufacturing employment fell off 1,500 from February to March, although it maintained a gain of 800 over year-ago figures.

The upturn in employment the bulletin said, was a clear reversal of rising unemployment which began in 1970 and continued through the first half of 1972.

Quarterly comparisons with the first quarter of 1972 showed 1973 unemployment down by 11.5 per cent, with the quarterly unadjusted unemployment rate dropping to 6 per cent in the first quarter of 1973 as compared to 7 per cent for 1972.

The 6 per cent rate is the lowest recorded during a first quarter since 1970 when it also averaged 6 per cent.

Looking at the agricultural employment picture, analyst Edward Hunter wrote: "Employment of regular hired workers this year is expected to equal about those of 1972, which averaged 8,500."

"There continues an increasing demand for permanent farm hands who are informed on crop production, who have a fairly high level of mechanical background. To obtain and hold such an employee, farm operators are paying higher salaries, providing good housing and attractive benefits

"There will be a big drop in the recruitment of interstate seasonal-hired workers this year," Hunter continued.

"Technological advancements in equipment and procedures means many migrant families who have settled in local farming communities and who continue to work in the fields, and a surplus number of 'freewheelers' (unsolicited, migrant workers) are contributing to the decline in the recruitment of interstate seasonal workers."

The employment department "Economic Indicators" for March, 1973, showed a decline from 100 per cent to 80 per cent on the "Five Leading Indicators-Diffusion Index," as a result of a decrease in the average manufacturing work week.

The "Fifteen Contributing and Selected Indicators Diffusion Index" on the other hand increased by one percentage point from January to February, 1973.

Answer Man Offers Advice On Outdoor Photography

By O. J. "RED" ROTH

After summer is over, it's time for friends to get together to exchange experiences and share vacation pictures. As an old hand at these sessions, I often marvel at the differences between pictures.

O. J. "Red" Roth

Some shots, taken with imagination, are truly creative and very enjoyable to see. Others are static and uninteresting. And, the funny thing is, the creative shots are just as easy to take as the static pictures. All it takes is some care in shooting, an eye for beauty and a simple camera, such as the Kodak pocket Instamatic camera, that lets you concentrate on framing the picture.

Especially on vacations in the Great Outdoors, when the family is surrounded by nature—the sunrise over the lake, the perfection of a newly formed leaf, the stately grace of a deer—there are many sights ready made for spectacular picture-taking that expresses the mood of the vacation.

Capturing the look and emotion of these special moments on film requires examination of the photographic possibilities of each scene. Work around to investigate several shooting angles and visualize the message you're trying to tell. This technique will help result in a picture with form and mood.

Look for lighting variations in the Great Outdoors. Remember the breathtaking effect formed by a few rays of sunlight filtering down between the leaves in a heavily wooded area? And the misty foggy stillness of the early morning? Capture these moods in pictures.

I've found the most effective time for taking mood pictures is during the hours from sunrise until 10 a.m. and from 3 p.m. to sunset. During these times shadows, and contrast are more pronounced. Interesting effects can also be achieved by photographing the sun at right angles to the lens of the camera. Varied lighting will provide depth and interest.

In every case, keep the camera handy. Take lots of pictures for experimentation. And remember the picture that isn't taken will never be seen again!

Lure of Water Sports Involves All as Outboards Furnish Answer to "Why Row?"

By BILL AUGER

The lure of outboard boating has come a long way since the early advertisements of a half-century ago teased boaters with the question, "Why Row?" Today, with more than 50 million U.S. and Canadian participants, the attraction of boating is a lot like the call of the buckaroo at the county fair. "Come one, come all," he says. "There's fun for the whole family."

The attraction today isn't just the outboard, but what the outboard will do for you. Outboard models for 1973 include everything from the tiny Johnson 2 h.p. with self-contained fuel tank, for canoeing, dinghies and the like, all the way up to 150-horsepower-plus plants, like Johnson's Stinger GP, for the outboard racing circuit.

For one user, it's power to take the family water skiing. For another, it's a way to get to his favorite fishing hole, fast. For still another, the outboard lets him cruise camp or picnic on some of this country's scenic waters. For most, outboarding is a combination of these.

Year's Study
The Boating Industry Association makes a yearly study of what new boat and motor buyers use their equipment for. The figures show the percentage of mentions each activity received among outboard and boat buyers. Many buyers put down several activities, which is why the percentages add up to more than 100.

Water skiing has taken over the number one spot, edging out the long-time leader, fishing. Water skiing received 51 percent mention from the respondents in 1971 while fishing placed second with 47 percent. The 1972 figures are not available.

Fishing Tops
Until 1971 fishing had always received the most mentions. In 1970, for instance, fishing received a score of 55 percent, while water skiing received 45 percent.

The market research experts point out that the figures do not mean that fewer people are fishing, but that the interest in water-oriented activities like water skiing has greatly increased. The figures support the theory that boating equipment buyers are increasingly turning to areas in which skill and expertise may be practiced.

Outboard Rig Booklet Gives Racing Tips

Attention speed buffs: Johnson Outboards has a booklet available for 25¢ which can help you get more performance from your outboard rig called "Take Charge, this 20-page booklet takes the high-performance outboard through the steps to setting up a competitive rig and explains the various racing categories. Send a quarter for handling and postage to: TAKE CHARGE, DEPARTMENT 60, JOHNSON OUTBOARDS, WAUKESHA, ILLINOIS 60085.

ment buyers are increasingly turning to areas in which skill and expertise may be practiced.

Cruising Tops
But back to the study. Cruising retained its third place stance, with 33 percent points, and just managed to stay ahead of hunting which registered 30 percent of the mentions.

"Other," that ubiquitous category which lumps all those commercial fishermen, scuba divers, dinghy users et al., remained steady at seven percent.

So, as the old advertisement said, why row? Why not, instead, water ski, fish, cruise, camp, picnic, or generally have fun like the millions who have discovered the lure of boating.

Retired Couples Selling Homes To Follow the Sun on Wheels

By JACK VINCENT

"Let's sell the house and get away from it all" is a sentiment more and more retired couples are acting on. With early retirements and larger pensions on the increase, a lot of people find they now have the time and wherewithal to "chuck" the house, the lawnmower and snowblower and all the ills of life.

Many are electing to do it with a motorhome. Motorhomes are self-propelled vehicles which offer all the comforts of home and are an ideal way to travel.

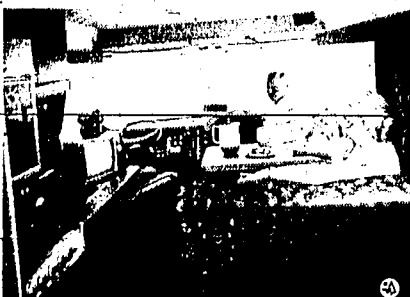

As one retired couple in the Grand Teton National Park put it, "The motorhome allows us to go where we want, when we want and to stay as long as we want."

"My husband and I enjoy the flexibility our motorhome gives us," another lady reported. "We can winter in Florida or Southern California, or both. During the other months we travel to various places in the north and occasionally Canada, taking time along the way to make extended visits with our son and daughter and the grand children. Sometimes we even take them along."

While some people maintain small apartments to which they return, others find that the comforts of a modern motorhome make any kind of permanent residence superior.

"Frankly, we found that the amount of time we spent in the apartment just didn't warrant the expense," commented a man touring New England with his wife. "Besides, we retired to get away from all the bother of home ownership."

Doesn't motorhome living make a storage problem? "Not so," said his wife. "A motorhome has plenty

R-V Rental Plan For Occasional Campers

For the stay-at-home family that hits the road too seldom to justify the cost of a complete R-V rig, rental may be a convenient answer, according to International Trucks, a major manufacturer of recreational vehicles.

Rental on a weekly basis runs between $75 and $125 for travel trailers, $85 to $90 for fold-down camping trailers, $125 to $200 for truck and camper combinations and $225 to $350 for motorhomes. There will also be an extra $8 to $12 per mile charge when the towing vehicle is part of the package or when you're renting a motorhome. Basic rates tend to be lowest on the West Coast.

Under most rental agreements, the driver pays for his gas, must get phone authorization for repairs of more than $25, and must pay a deposit refundable upon return of the vehicle in good condition.

Radio Sets Now Viewed Essential To Safety of All Vacationers

Take along a portable weather radio—next time you're outdoors. It could save your life! Here's how. The National Weather Service broadcasts from more than 60 U.S. cities, with many more stations allocated through federal funding over the next few years.

Continuous reports feature emergency weather conditions, extended forecasts, water and wind conditions, temperature, and precipitation.

The service is particularly important in areas bordering the Great Lakes, Gulf coast, and east-west seaboard where storms have taken lives and property in huge proportions. That's where most weather stations are located, but the National Weather Service has also implemented a program for inland states where skiers, hunters, fishermen and campers find recreation under changing weather conditions.

Radios which receive these forecasts are often priced at moderate costs and come with dual purposes.

Zenith Radio Corporation's Royal D52Y, for example, has a tripod public service band which receives weather stations plus additional functions: police, fire, taxicabs, mobile telephone and civil air patrol.

It also has FM and AM bands designed into a rugged simulated leather portable case just for outdoor wear. It operates from battery or AC power.

Before leaving on your trip, check the batteries for your transistor radios, flashlights, movie cameras, etc. at any dealer's battery tester. Date the replacements. If over six months old, replace them to obtain maximum performance.

PLANNING-A-COOKOUT? Why not involve the whole family? It's a sure way to guarantee success. Mom may find her little helper can be of some assistance, if shown what to do. A young lady of five or six will feel very grown-up when she's put in charge of wrapping corn in foil, or setting the table. A young man will feel that he did it all, if Dad lets him turn the meat... and he's a natural to keep the supply of ice and soft drinks refilled.

GIVE A DINNER PARTY... but don't worry about dinner. Let your guests fix their own. With an hors d'oeuvres menu, guests can assemble kabobs and grill snacks while enjoying the party. For unusual, but simple, party fixings that can be prepared in advance and left for guests to cook, try large, whole, fresh mushroom caps (grill on skewers about 12 minutes, turning once or twice; then dip in a creamy white onion dressing or eat plain), and giant shrimp, brushed with melted garlic butter and grilled.

HELPING KEEP THE OUTDOORS GREAT is everyone's job. You've heard it all before, but it's still true. When you're enjoying outdoor living, you can do your part by not littering, by recycling products that used to be part of the trash heap, by not burning leaves or trash... and by asking your neighbors not to, also. When watering the lawn or washing the car, don't let the water run excessively. If you're cooking on a gas grill, you're using the cleanest burning source of energy available. Use it wisely. Supplies are limited, and natural gas is one of the most valuable resources we have, and a real plus in helping clean up the environment.

Conditioning, Tuning Outboard Insure 'Go', Eliminate 'Row'

Most small boat owners will be putting between 50 and 60 hours on their outboards this season. The amount of wear and tear on the engine is equal to putting 10,000 miles on your car! In that length of time, for a two-cylinder outboard,

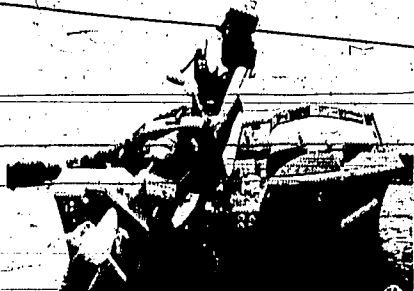

- Each spark plug fires 15,000,000 times
- Contact points open and close 30,000,000 times
- The magneto delivers 30,000,000 charges of current, 15,000 volts per charge
- Spark plug wires deliver a total 450,000,000 volts
- The crankshaft will rotate 30,000,000 times

On this basis, it's easy to see why engine parts, particularly the ignition system, wear out. Says Champion Spark Plug Company:

Conditioning your outboard before the boating season begins can eliminate the embarrassing situation where you are the first in the water... and also the first out, long before the fun season ends.

Make sure spark plugs are cleaned and gapped. If this was done last season, consider installing new spark plugs to get this season off to a good start.

Go over the rest of the ignition system carefully making sure contact points are in good condition, adjusted to the proper gap, and that spark timing is set correctly. Check all cables for broken insulation, loose connectors or for frayed cables. Replace all worn cables.

For trouble-free boating be sure to give your outboard a pretty little tune-up, before the season begins. This water sports enthusiast shows the best way to keep your outboard in great shape - a tune-up with good new marine spark plugs.

Make sure you have an extra set of spark plugs on board as well as a wrench to install them. Keep these in a good, dry place to avoid rusting.

Make sure the fuel system is clean, and all components operating properly.

With these sorts of precautions plus your other normal "get-back-in-the-water" checks and adjustments, you're ready for another trouble-free fun season on the water.

"Spare Passenger" Needs Checking

You've packed all the luggage, kids, and camping gear into the car and now you think you're ready to go into the Great Outdoors. But there's one passenger you might have overlooked - your spare tire. A flat or "soft" spare is as good as no spare at all. Check your spare before you pack.

Fishing's Fun, More So When You Catch 'Em

Worm Turns for Bass Fishermen Now Changing Style and Method

By CHUCK ROBERTS

Used to be... and not too many years ago... that to be a bass'n man meant flinging "full grown" plastic worms attached to line heavy enough to moor the Queen Elizabeth during a hurricane.

And then the rest of the battle came. The first time a two-pounder made it to the surface was the last time he got his full in the water. A quick, short-lived fight that proved once again that rope for line, a winch for a reel and pool cue for a rod really could whip a youngster bass.

But the worm has turned to shorter lengths - and the bass'n man is changing his style. Not only style but also his method, because method can dictate style. He's going lightweight for the heavyweights and catching more bass in between.

What's with this lightweight stuff? Well, that's what it is - lightweight spinning equipment that's been fished by a lot of fishermen for a lot of years but has gotten the "blessing" of the pro fishermen the past season or two.

To Win - Must Catch. It's spinning equipment and the reason for its fishing popularity is a combination of economics and logic: bass tournament winners win money and trophies. If they win, to win they must catch fish. More fish in total weight than the other fishermen.

More logic: there are more little fish in the lake than big fish. Little fish catch easier because (1) there are more of them and (2) they eat more frequently. Ten of these "little fish" (a limit) will generally weigh more than two or three of the bigger fish which may not bite anyway. Little fish bite better on smaller lures. To throw smaller, lightweight lures you need lighter tackle which says spinning tackle.

There's another reason, emphasized bass tournament professional John Powell of Alabama. "Water clarity!" And what the director of Zebco's Pro Advisory Staff is saying is that when fishing clear water lakes you have to back off from the fish and present the smaller bait.

"When I won the Table Rock National (63 lbs. in three days) I was down to 6' and 10' P-w line. The next tournament at Ross Barnett was the same thing. I had to go to 1' 10' OZ Dolls to catch fish."

See More Strikers. Powell believes that one key to fishing the light line is the line. He carries several pre-filled spools for his Cardinal 4 loaded with different tests of Stren line. "Line watching is the key. I'll see a lot more strikes than I feel and the fluorescence of Stren lets me see them. I liken fishing without watching the line to fly fishing with a popping bug with boxing gloves on my hands and a blindfold over my eyes. It don't work."

What percentage of the bass pros carry and use spinning tackle? Powell says it's over 90%. Whatever the percentage, the results are good:

Short rods and open face reels gain popularity as bass fishermen wish to be more versatile.

another Zebco field staffer, Glen Wells, won back-to-back professional tournaments this spring on Cardinal spinning equipment.

Or take Tulsa, Oklahoma's Don Butler. The veteran tournament fisherman who holds membership card #1 in the national BASS organization found things a little tough during 1972's Bassmaster Classic at Percy Forester Lake in Washington, Tenn. The $10,000 winner, take-all fish-off pitted the nation's top 24 anglers in a three-day meet full of cold temperatures, rain and uncooperative fish.

Combination Work. Butler found the key he went after them with a small Okie Bug spinner bait (which he manufactures) and threw it with a Cardinal 4 spinning reel loaded with 8' line. The combination worked and Butler swept in to first place the second day of the meet. He held that position to take it all and the title of "Bassmaster Champ."

The small-baits, such as Dolls, Mys and Okie Bugs

'They're Up' Means It's Bassin' Time Down Under

"They're up!" is a familiar yell among many fishermen and what it means is that a school of feeding white-bass or black bass has run a school of frenzied shad to the surface and are rapidly reducing their numbers. Sometimes these schools stay up only 30 seconds. Sometimes as long as 30 minutes. But however long they stay up, the fishermen who stay with them in the "jumps" are in for some fast fishing. It may happen in the back of a small cove, in front of a public boat dock, under a bridge or in the middle of the lake.

Here are some tricks: On top they'll usually hit shad-looking baits such as the Doll Fish or Vibrator. Work it fast. A quick retrieving spinning reel like the Zebco Cardinal 4 works well. So do fast retrieving spin-cast reels such as the Zebco One. If you're an ultra-light fisherman, small white or yellow maribou jigs will work.

Don't forget the big fish in the school. They may be white bass or even trophy black bass but regardless, they'll probably be below the school. Maybe they're lazy... letting the little guys Fishing is fun but so is catching fish. And there're more times than not in a fisherman's life when he finds the only thing the fish are biting is each other.

It happens often, but more often than not the fisherman who goes to the mini baits during these hard times can come up with maxi limits.

The mini baits are rapidly gaining favor in those clear water reservoirs where fish have a more than normal case of lockjaw. "Not biting" is the fisherman's gripe. But the fisherman who goes to light spinning gear, ultra light, and attaches these small baits to line as light as 12 test has a better than average chance of making the fellows back at the dock change their way of thinking.

How small is small? It's very small. Like 1/32 oz. Doll Flies in Maribou or bait styles. For normal fishing for bass, walleyes or panfish the usual weights in these small baits fall into three 1/8 or 1/16 oz. range.

When fishing the ultra light baits the usual hard charging strike of a bass or panfish doesn't always happen. More times than not Because of the versatility of spinning tackle - the ease of changing line spools and tests to meet changing conditions - open face spinning is being used more and more as a 100% outfit.

One of John Powell's most used outfits is a powerful yet responsive 6-9 one-piece spinning rod. The Zebco pro staffer who designed this spinning rod primarily for worm fishing also throws the 1 1/2 oz. baits with the same rig simply by changing spools on his Cardinal 4 to a lighter test line.

Give it a try. Change your style and go light weight. It's a method that's proved itself for bass with lockjaw.

Hindu myth says the world was born of a giant egg that split in half. One part formed the earth and the other, the sky.

Fishing breaking bass is fun on top, productive down under.

on top do the hard work... but they are there and if the right bait is presented the right way, they'll hit. Use something that will get down like a Ditch Digger or heavier Doll maribou jig. And if the surface feeding fish are black bass, here's a tip: the school won't be too far away when they're not feeding on top. Work the areas with structure (drop off, brush, etc.) and when you find them you'll have some top to bottom fun throughout the day.

This hot night's mini-bait catch might be like...

It's an almost unnoticeable "twitch" in the line that signals a strike. Because it is such a small strike, many ultra-light fishermen rely on fluorescent lines such as DuPont's Stren to give them a little help in "feeling" the strike. One word of caution: the size of the strike doesn't necessarily mean the fish is the same size. Five pound bass often hit the same as 1/2 lb. bluegill.

Fish'n is fun and so is catching 'em. And one of the best ways to raise your percentage is to go to the mini baits... for maxi limits.

If you've joined the growing number of bicycle enthusiasts, why not pack a convenient, yet appetizing and nutritious snack—the next time you go pedaling? Then when you get hungry and need a break, park your bike under a shady tree and revitalize yourself this way. Take a tip from Gerber nutritionists and discover the wide variety of energy-giving fruits and pudding-type desserts in the supermarket baby food department. These are the same familiar jars countless mothers have relied on for many years.

When you're going to be out bicycling, carry along one or several of these individual containers and bright, light plastic spoons to eat with. One of the earliest convenience-type foods, these little jars of scientifically processed nourishment come in a wider variety and are less expensive than other individual snack products on the market.

Whatever your taste may be, there's something to please you. Will it be the tangy apricots with tapioca or the satiny smooth Blueberry Buckle dessert? When your biking spirits need reviving, take time out and indulge in an individual portion-size jar of natural applesauce or a creamy Vanilla Custard Pudding. Other favorites with the outdoor crowd are pears, peaches or rosy red Raspberry Cobbler dessert.

If you've planned an all-day bike hike, plan a basic picnic that includes these handy snack jars, featuring for example, these two lunch menus.

'Wha-Didja-Catchem-On?'

What didja catchem on? is a many syllabled word that's mighty familiar to the fly-fishing-fisherman casting a glance at a full limit of bragging bass down at the boat dock.

The answers to the fisherman's universal question vary in detail and honesty, but one answer being heard more and more is: Spinner baits.

What are they and why do they catch fish? Only the fish know the answer to the latter question but as to the first, a lead weighted jig body with a hair or plastic skirt attached to a "safety-pin" type wire with a spinner on one end describes it.

Maybe the spinning spinner blade attracts the fish. Maybe the vibrating noise of the blade attracts them. Maybe a lot of reasons, but the fact is that spinner baits catch fish from top to bottom.

Here's how to fish them.

ON TOP is called "Buzzin'" and it's deadly in the spring and certain times of the fall. A fast retrieving reel like the 808 or Zebeo One that's capable of bringing in 18-22 inches of line at a single crank is a big asset. The bait has to stay on top over logs and through slick-ups. Another big asset a buzzin' bait fisherman can have in the boat is one of these reels loaded with Golden Stren line. That's right! Yellow-looking line that helps track the lure through the brush.

FALLING is another way to fish the spinner bait. It's a variation of the first. When the lure reaches the log or stick-up or is over a drop off, let it fall. When it falls to the depth you've figured is the right one, raise the rod tip and crank the 808 to get it back up. Many times when the strike comes when the lure is falling.

JIG'N the bottom is a variation on the falling technique. This method of fishing the spinner bait is the summer or cold-water fishing in the winter months. Most often the type water you'll be fishing will fall into the general categories of rocky bluffs or points. Cast to the bank or out on the point. Don't engage the reel but rather let the line flow freely. If you're using heavy spinning gear like the Cardinal 8 or Cardinal 7, leave the bait open. When the bait reaches the bottom, jig it back keeping it close to the bottom.

How do fish hit these baits? On top with a buzzin' but they kill it! Falling they'll usually simply "twitch" the line very lightly. When jig'n the bait many times they'll "twitch" it when falling or simply stop it.

Experiment with these baits in size, color and blade configuration. Some days it may be a green striped 1/2 oz. Doll Spin and the next day a red and yellow Bass Rat with a red blade. How important is the blade? For two weeks in the spring of '72 on one Oklahoma lake white skirted baits with red blades did the trick.

Try 'em. They like 'em.

Flying Families Find Way to Beat Traffic to Outdoor Fun

You don't have to drive 10-12 hours to get to that special family vacation spot or weekend hideaway 500-600 miles away.

With a modern personal airplane, it's only a few relaxed hours by air.

More and more people discover this every day. The key is a private pilot's license.

Coupled with any of the wide range of privately-owned and rental aircraft available to today's pilot, the ability to fly opens a vast new world of traveling freedom and places to go.

Flying families enjoy departure and arrival at their convenience. Their aircraft are comfortable, fast, economical, and they can carry the entire family plus all the essentials needed for any vacation.

Often—particularly where there are three or four members in the family or two or more couples—the cost is less than the same trip by automobile.

To a private pilot, a weekend trip to a resort 500 miles from home is no more than three to four scenic flying hours away and, with more than 11,000 airports and airstrips in the U.S., choices of where to go are practically limitless.

Some are in or near large metropolitan centers, many are situated at or near resorts and lakes, while others offer the beauty and tranquility of wilderness areas for camping, fishing, hunting or any of a hundred other outdoor pursuits.

The joy and practicality of travel by private aircraft annually leads thousands of people to pilot licenses and private aircraft ownership or rental. These are people from practically every walk of life — doctors, house-

Thousands Now Able to Fly, Find It Easier to 'Take a Break' When the Spirit Moves

Need a break after a hard week at the office or routine at home? Personal flying provides the perfect answer. Every weekend, thousands of Americans take to the air in their own or rented airplanes for a well-earned weekend or fun-filled vacation in the Great Outdoors.

All-it takes is a private pilot's license, which can be earned at any of hundreds of flight training schools, such as the nationwide network of Cessna Pilot Centers — throughout the country.

Learning to fly, basically, is no more difficult than learning to drive. Evidence of this is found in Federal Aviation Administration statistics which show that, during the past eight years, more than 1,000,000 Americans have begun flight training lessons.

Many now are enjoying the rewards and personal satisfaction of piloting their own family airplanes — for business as well as pleasure.

Two essentials are needed to get started — average good health (about the same as you'd need to pass an insurance physical) and a sincere desire to learn.

Approved Flight School.

Given these, a check through your telephone directory will provide the names of approved flight schools in your area.

Probably the best — and most common — way to begin is the special "get-acquainted" introductory flight lesson offered at most schools for only $5.00. This permits a newcomer to actually fly an airplane himself (accompanied by a licensed flight instructor) and base his decision to continue to a private pilot license on actual piloting experience.

A great deal of research has gone into the most effective ways of teaching people to fly.

Some schools teach operation of the aircraft as a separate and unrelated element from ground school (in which students learn about Federal Aviation Regulations, navigation and other elements needed to fly from one airport to another).

More modern methods, such as that used at Cessna Pilot Centers for example, feature "integrated" learning. In this system, ground instruction and flight portions are interwoven in such a way that the student is exposed only to that portion of classroom-learning relating specifically to his next flying lesson. He learns what he needs to know at a logical time and place, and applies it immediately to a particular flight lesson and situation.

Known as the "What to Do" program, the student knows, in advance, exactly what he will be doing during each lesson and can prepare for it at his leisure.

Integrated training has additional advantages, also. It is accompanied by complete audio/visual aids, which help the student master material — quickly and easily — either in the privacy of his own home or group classroom situations.

As with any learning situation, flight training begins with a flight instructor introducing the student to the environment to be used — in this case, an airplane. He starts by pointing out what makes it fly and how the various controls operate. With this kind of introduction and the logical sequence of modern training

Camp by Air!

One of the more popular recreational pursuits being enjoyed by growing numbers of pilots and their families is camping by air, combining the joy of flying with the invigorating experience of camping. These people find they are able to save money, see more country in a shorter time, have more fun, and fewer headaches, and meet some of the nicest people anywhere.

methods, most students find they are able to solo — fly the airplane themselves — after only about 10-12 hours of instruction time.

Federal Aviation Administration regulations require that a student have a minimum of 35-40 hours of flying time before taking his private pilot flight test with an FAA-licensed flight examiner.

Learning Essentials

This time is spent learning various flight maneuvers, cross-country flight planning, map reading and other essentials to prepare for the test and a safe, enjoyable business and personal flying career.

There's an accomplishment opens a new world of travel, expanded business opportunities and personal freedom.

Weekend trips seem like vacations, and business trips — formerly long, tiring experiences — become only a few, relaxed hours by air. A private pilot's license makes it happen.

The American bike comes into its own in the Seventies! A way of life for all ages — healthful & fun

The idea that the bicycle is a toy is as outdated as the five-cent cigar.

Millions of Americans from coast-to-coast have been rediscovering the bicycle as a recreation and travel vehicle. In fact, the Bicycle Institute of America recently announced that more than 13 million bicycles were purchased in the United States in 1972 and that figure is bound to grow substantially this year.

Further statistical analysis has revealed that nearly 50 percent of all those new bicycles were adult models. With the expansion of leisure time, Americans have almost instinctively turned to bicycles for recreational and travel requirements.

In recent years we have become increasingly more and more ecology conscious. Air, water and sound pollution have become the subject of hours and hours of debate and lately the tears of experts in these fields have led to legislation and controls.

Pollution is a dirty word to most Americans. It is as repulsive to some as the word war. To others, pollution is an insidious enemy of our society and the more the citizenry becomes aware of its dangers, the more it will turn to immediate, remedial action.

The bicycle is obviously one of those remedial actions. Sure, the bicycle has been around since before the Gay Nineties. It is heralded in the folklore and song of our nation. As a matter of fact, it is the bicycle which is responsible for the high-way system in this country, not to mention most of the engineering advances found in that Johnny Come Lately, the automobile.

Right, bikes had gears and brakes and pneumatic tires before the Model T was even a dream.

Travel and recreation buffs have really aided the astounding growth of the bicycle in recent times. In hamlets and major cities all around the nation, local governments are making special provisions for the cyclist. The bicycle route sign is almost as familiar as the school zone or stop signs and people take to them with the knowledge that there is a safe route to follow.

But the bike route is just a drop in the bucket in the greater scheme of things. Bicycle bikeways have been mapped out in cities all over America. Here the cyclist has his own section of the roadway, suitably marked on the pavement. He can commute to work, do the shopping, ride to school, and just as importantly take the bikeway out of the city, if properly and into the world of bike paths and bike trails.

Conservative estimates have placed the bicycle, bike trail, bike path mileage figure at at least 25,000 miles in the continental United States. From the finest seashore resort to Los Angeles, Chicago and New York, space is being turned over to bicycle transportation.

Believe it or not there is even a Statewide bicycle trail, that in the sprawling milk and cheese land of Wisconsin. Residents of the Badger State and their guests have a 430-mile state bicycle trail. It is scenic and historic and townfolk along the way have actually built rest areas and refreshment stands to accommodate the bicycle nomads. Sunday family groups and young adventurers. Along the way the cyclist can pause to commune with nature, chase butterflies, or simply sit in a shady road-side way station and discuss the events of our times.

Now that the Wisconsin route is statewide, some far-sighted groups have already broken the ice on the development of an interstate bike trail facility. The day is not too far distant when Wisconsin will link its bike trail with a similar path across Illinois, and so it goes. Indiana has seven State bicycle trails, tops in the Nation, and the Hoosiers are already at the drawing boards, trying to link them and add new ones.

Some people ask why all the fuss and bother about bicycles. Well, the day is just around the corner. Perhaps by the 200th anniversary celebration of our great country, in 1976, when every other American will be on a bicycle. That's right, 100 million Americans on bicycles!

These millions are going to have to have more space to ride and a greater share of the current road and highway system. Safety alone calls for distinct consideration for the cyclist. After all, every state in the union considers the bicycle under its vehicle code, thus making the cyclist responsible to abide by the rules of the road.

Anyone who has ridden to the Netherlands or Denmark, or many other European countries realizes what happens when the populace embraces the bicycle. It's the great way to go. It's out doors, it's healthy, it does not pollute, it's great fun.

The Amazon Basin, the area drained by the river and its tributaries, covers 2.3 million square miles.

DISCOVERY: The bicycle is a simple, yet effective, means of transportation. It is a pleasure to ride, and it is a healthy way to get around. The bicycle is a great way to get around, and it is a healthy way to get around.

Financing a Vehicle Can Be Painless

Purchasing a recreational vehicle doesn't have to be any more of a financial burden for the average family than the purchase of a family car, according to a spokesman for International Trucks, one of America's major manufacturers of recreational trucks.

A variety of financing arrangements give the buyer a broad choice of plans, says International. In buying a pickup-truck such as a four-door Traveler or a two-door Camper Special pickup, for example, you will probably elect to take the full 36-month payment period, similar to the standard car purchase. If the camper unit itself is bought with the pickup, it can be included in that financing package.

Even longer financing periods are available to buyers of motorhomes, according to International. Five years is about the average, although there are dealers who will finance up to seven years. Again, the same general terms of a new car purchase will probably apply. The down payment required will depend on the dealer and your own credit record. It can go as high as 25 per cent in some cases or as low as a few hundred dollars.

But the ability to spread the purchase out over a relatively long period of time substantially reduces monthly payments and puts a handsome RV package within financial reach.

So, if you want to get away in your own recreational vehicle, it may be much easier than you think PICTURED above is Wills Motor's new Recreational Vehicle Department. They now carry Superior, Titan, and Shasta motor homes. Also Starcraft camping trailers. They will be on display at the Recreational Vehicle Show April 27th and 28th on the downtown Mall.

If you are looking for a short cut to summer beauty, why not do just that? Cut your hair short, and you'll have convenience and style as well. The return of cropped hair is making big beauty news these days as fashion conscious gals all over the country rush to their favorite hair stylists for the fresh, new carefree look.

From Pocket to Picture To Your Vacation Album

More families than ever are packing—and pocketing—their cameras as they go off in search of unusual and exciting adventures for their vacations. Action vacations particularly call for lots of pictures to record feats performed by the whole family.

Here are a few tips from the Kodak photo expert:

• FOR WATER VACATIONS whether shooting the Colorado rapids or sailing a calm lake, place the camera in a plastic bag to protect it from water. When taking pictures, minimize the movement of the raft or boat by photographing objects head-on rather than from the side.

• FOR CAMPING VACATIONS remember shots of cool evenings around the campfire. These evening pictures are easy using the automatic exposure mechanism on most models of the Kodak pocket Instamatic camera. This allows picture-taking using available light rather than flashcubes. Just frame the picture and squeeze the shutter for a shot of the family around the fire.

Get the family's early bird to photograph the sun as it rises over the lake at dawn. Photographs of such scenes can be enhanced when framed with some tall grass to one side of the picture. Or, silhouette another family member in the foreground to provide a point of interest.

• FOR HIKING TRIPS, cameras are invaluable too. The still beauty of the woods and the delightful color of wildflowers are perfect for photographable studies. And, of course, take pictures of family members and the expressions of relief as they cool tired feet in a nearby stream. When taking "people" pictures remember that subjects doing something are more interesting than those who look camera-conscious.

Time to Summerize Recreational Vehicles

Removal of All Signs of Winter Recommended as First Step To Roadworthy Operation

"Before making extensive summer use of a recreational vehicle, owners should first make sure it is properly de-winterized," says Mike Radigan, National Director of the Recreational Vehicle Institute. He referred to the process of readying an RV for hot weather use as "summerizing" and said the first step in summerizing is to remove signs of winter.

"Anti-freeze should be drained from the radiator and fresh water should be back-flushed through the cooling system," the RVI head suggests.

"Engine oil should be changed and summer oil used — a new oil filter should be installed. At the same time, it is a good idea to have the entire chassis lubricated.

"It shouldn't be necessary to change transmission fluid or differential oil but these should at least be checked, as should the power steering oil.

Check Spark Plugs

"Master cylinder brake fluid should also be checked." Other steps toward "summerizing," according to Radigan, include cleaning and gapping (or replacing) spark plugs and points, recharging battery condition, checking and replacing if necessary such items as light bulbs, windshield wiper blades, muffler and tail pipe, springs and shock absorbers.

Radigan also suggested front end alignment checks, inspection of tires and a general underneath check for damage of any kind.

"As for the living quarters, the water storage tank should be thoroughly flushed out to remove any anti-freeze you may have used and to clean out the tank and water lines. Thorough flushing should continue for at least 15 minutes," the RVI director advises.

Look for Leaks

"This is a good time to make sure your pump is working properly and that there are no leaks anywhere in your water system," Radigan advised, suggesting similar treatment for the holding tank.

He emphasized that special attention should be paid to appliances including range, furnace, refrigerator, water heater, etc., and said that gas appliances should be carefully tested for correct pilot flames in accordance with manufacturers' instructions.

Remember These

"An additional check of all windows, doors, ventilators, cabinets, and a little oil or graphite on noisy or stiff hinges... a final check of your interior lights, careful inspection of your hitch and safety chains, and you should be ready for a summer full of fun," Radigan concluded.

Adventure-seekers vacationers who want to take their camper trailers off the beaten path into scenic areas such as the "back" with its magnificent view of the Grand Tetons — will do well to make sure their rigs are checked thoroughly before they consider off-road maneuvers.

Check List—for Those Who Will Tow Trailers

If you're planning to tow a trailer on a vacation trip this summer, you won't be alone. Trailer towing has increased 400% in the past ten years.

But you may be alone — all alone — if your car breaks down in the boonies. Minimize this danger by properly servicing and equipping your car before hooking up that trailer.

Here are some things to be checked:

BRAKES. Is the lining thick enough for a season of driving? Are components completely leak-free? Is pedal pressure solid without sponginess and is fluid up to the mark?

TRANSMISSION. Is fluid level correct? Does the car shift at correct speed without lag or erratic performance? Are "U" joints quiet?

TIRES. Are treads wearing evenly? Any cracks or cuts in the tread or sidewalls? Adequate size for load? More than 1/16" of tread left?

COOLING SYSTEM. If it has been a year or more since the last cooling system service, it's a good idea to have the system flushed out and replace the anti-freeze coolant. A 50% solution is recommended. This will assure a margin of safety in terms of boiling protection. Are hoses and fittings leak-free? No sponginess? Are fanbelts tight and in good condition? Are thermostat and water pump working properly?

LIGHTS. All operative, including signal lights? Tail light lenses in good condition? Extra fuses in the glovebox?

SHOCK ABSORBERS & SUSPENSION. Any leakage from the shocks? Springs sagging from old age?

WHEEL ALIGNMENT. Had it checked lately?

ENGINE. Before an extended drive, the engine should be tuned. This is especially important under heavier load conditions when you need all the power you can get. Check the mileage since your last tune and oil and filter change, too.

For Younger Generation A Party Time Favorite

Nothing is more fun for small fry than an outdoor party planned just for them. One favorite is a cookout with a zoo theme. Decorations include old stuffed toys, cut-outs and a few "don't feed the animals" signs. And, of course, food to fit the party mood.

Since hot dogs are always popular, the menu might feature Pickle Pups, a finger salad, and Tiger Milk Punch.

PICKLE PUPS

Stuff hot dogs with a strip of dill pickle and glaze with ready to go meat sauce. Serves 16.

HELPFUL HINTS

When an engine misses as the car is accelerated but runs fine at light load or idle, the probable reason is that a worn plug may misfire because of increased compression pressure at heavy load.

When cleaning your windshield, don't force the wiper blades aside. Some of the late model electrically driven wipers can be permanently damaged by forcing them to another position.

Some ignition problems don't show themselves except in wet weather. That's when cracked insulation is most likely to fail. Avoid trouble by having boots and cables inspected when you buy new spark plugs.

If you should be adding water to your car's battery, be careful not to overfill. Spilled acid will attack metal, hood-downs, cables and other parts adjacent to the battery.

Don't Pass Up Free Services At Outlets

May Cost You Money Later If You Do

(Maybe the best things in life aren't really free, but if you pass up those free services offered by service outlets, it may cost you.)

Take the simple precaution of checking battery water levels. It requires only a few seconds of time and absolutely no money. But if battery fluid levels are allowed to drop and the condition is not detected, it could mean premature deterioration of the battery. It could cause an inconvenient "can't start" as well.

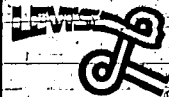

During hot, dry periods of summer, battery water is more likely to evaporate. So, especially during warm weather months, have the battery checked every time you stop for gas.

In addition to water levels, have the battery checked for corrosion and soundness of the cables.

Another free service that can save you money is checking the tires for proper inflation. Both under-inflation and over-inflation can be harmful to tires, wearing them out prematurely. For accurate readings, do not have the tires checked after you've driven more than a few miles.

Other free checks that will help prevent trouble include inspection of oil level and windshield washer fluid. Low levels of oil can lead to engine damage and no fluid in the washer reservoir could hamper visibility at a critical time.

Rotary Engines Still Require Maintenance

Some experts say the Wankel (rotary) engine is the automotive power source of the future. Other equally qualified authorities maintain that the present-day piston engine, although modified, will be with us for an indefinite period.

No matter who is correct, two facts are beyond dispute. The rotary engine is already an on-the-road reality. And this rotary engine, despite its simplified design, will continue to require regularly scheduled maintenance.

However, as different as the rotary engine is, there are still familiar basic maintenance needs. The rotary engine uses a conventional ignition system. Superdurable up is as important to the Wankel-type engine as it is to the piston engine.

The Mazda version of the rotary employs two rotors (combustion chambers) and each rotor uses two spark plugs, or four per engine. These plugs fire three times in each engine revolution and the combustion chamber environment in which they perform is much more demanding than in a conventional engine. As a result, service or replacement is recommended at 4,000 miles.

Since two plugs are used per rotor, two separate distributors are needed to fire the plugs in proper sequence. In other respects the Mazda ignition system is normal. Therefore, when tuning the engine, attention should be paid to:

- Cleaning, regapping or replacing spark plugs
- Compression check
- Carburetor check
- Idle and timing settings
- Condition of distributor components
- Spark plug wiring
- Air, oil and fuel filters
- Battery and electrical system

Other important maintenance checks on a rotary engine concern the cooling system and the oil supply.

Thousands Flock to Classrooms Even into Grease Pits to Learn More about Family Car

If a recent survey by the Automotive Information Council is any indication, the day may be coming when the lady of the house knows as much about what makes the family car tick as her husband does.

The AIC survey shows that thousands of women across the country are flocking to the classroom and even the grease pit.

They're donning coveralls (at least in some classrooms, where they are provided free) and taking a cool, calculating look at that erstwhile mystery, the family car!

Finding Out What Makes It Go

They're finding out what makes it go, when, where, how, and why. They're finding out how to handle emergency situations and how to keep the family chariot in safe operating condition.

The classes, which may run from a single day-long session to once-a-week courses of several weeks are being sponsored as a consumer service by an increasingly broad spectrum of the automotive industry—ranging from small independent repair shops to major car manufacturers, from franchised dealers to manufacturers of auto testing equipment and parts.

Surprisingly, though some are sponsored nationally by manufacturers and industry groups, many seem to have sprung up independently in response to the needs of women drivers.

Goal Is Same

Though formats and sponsorships vary, the courses all have the same goal: to aid the woman motorist in understanding her car, not necessarily to make her an expert mechanic, but to enable her to handle minor problems and to deal confidently and decisively with service technicians when their help is needed.

Almost all of the courses offer both classroom lectures—and actual demonstrations in shops and service facilities.

Response has been terrific, sponsors report, with many classes enrolling two and three times the students originally expected. In turn, resulting in more frequent scheduling of classes, often on a year-round basis.

Seven-Week Program

In Cedarhurst, N.Y., Mrs. Edna Freifeld, who has been an auto service technician since World War II and is the only female licensed state auto inspector in New York, has been conducting a seven-week program for women motorists. It includes such subjects as brake operation, battery care, tire changing and emission controls, as well as guest appearances by automotive experts from Bronx Community College and other institutions.

All shop personnel are on hand for demonstrations, which also cover some of the techniques used by fast buck artists, and she reports that many of the students taking the course have stayed on for an advance class she has just initiated.

Some Sponsors

Among firms conducting classes for women are: Bear Manufacturing Company, in Rock Island, Illinois; Chrysler's Women on Wheels program, now offered through 260 Chrysler dealers.

Is "I don't have time" a valid excuse?

Certainly, most people live busy, active lives. But a busy person soon learns that to accomplish what he must, he has to schedule activities.

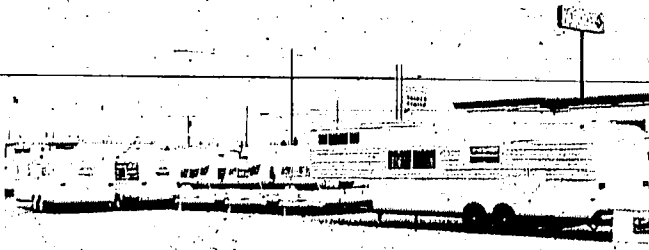

It may be inconvenient to bring a car in for service but it's even more inconvenient to ruin a vacation trip by having an undermaintained car break down in a strange location.

Who said, "I don't have the money"?

Few of us have all the money we need. But a few dollars spent on preventive maintenance can save a lot of dollars spent on corrective maintenance. A squirt of lubricant often can forestall the breakdown of an expensive part.

Certainly, there are reasons and excuses for everything. But you've invested too much money in your car to allow it to deteriorate. And you'll be investing too much hard-earned time and money on your vacation to let it be spoiled by a malfunctioning car.

Bring your car in for a pre-vacation check at your favorite service outlet and really enjoy your summer driving.

ADVICE TO WOMEN who DRIVE...and MEN, Too...

from DeDe BENSON... a woman who does

Dear DeDe:

My husband and I are doing a pilot and understanding is very tricky about the condition of his plane. But what drives me batty is that he is also a dingbat when it comes to our car. We are always late wherever we go because Bob insists on performing what he calls a "pre-flight check" before he gets into the car. He checks the tires, the wipers, the oil and water and a dozen other things before he'll even move out of the driveway. I'm all for safety but don't you think he's carrying this thing too far?

Mrs. R.W.
Chicago, Illinois

Dear Mrs. R.W.: Perhaps your husband is carrying things too far. But, if he is, at least he's on the side of the angels. (A good place for a pilot to be.) Too many motorists pay no attention to fundamentals like proper tire pressure, oil levels, good wipers and other basics necessary for trouble-free performance. At best, neglect can lead to premature deterioration of the car. At worst, carelessness can lead to a serious accident. Bear with your husband's carefulness. He wants to ner's circle together. a safe manner.

Dear DeDe:

Will you please help me out of a tight spot at home? I just met Jeff and he's the kind of guy I could get serious over. There's only one trouble. Jeff has his heart set on being a race driver. When my parents heard that, they blew their stacks and forbade me to see Jeff again. Now, I've driven with Jeff a number of times and he's a lot safer driver than some of the boys my parents approve of. How can I convince my parents to let me go out with Jeff?

Whong Track Winnie
Mobile, Alabama

Dear Winnie: You are right in one respect. Successful race drivers are the safest drivers in the world. They must adhere to the rules of the road and have their cars in the best possible condition to be successful. Why not arrange for a double date with your parents with Jeff driving. Once they see he's a better bet at the steering wheel than the average driver, you two may reach the win-

Dear DeDe:

We are a young couple on a tight budget. One high but important item on that budget is car expenses. Can you give us some tips on how to keep that budget under control?

CLAUDIE AND JEANNIE
Montreal, P.Q.

Dear C and J: One way not to save is to scrimp on preventive maintenance. That dollar you didn't spend could end up costing you five. For instance, there's no surer way to cause premature engine wear than to skip recommended oil and filter changes. Neglecting tune-up is going to cost you money in excessive gasoline bills, charges for road service when your car won't start and possible engine damage. Not checking the air in your tires, having tires improperly balanced could wear out a set of tires 25 percent prematurely. So, to avoid paying those whopping repair bills that shatter budgets, earmark some money for preventive maintenance. It pays off in the long run.

HERE'S HOW TO FIND...

A Good Place

TO SERVICE YOUR CAR

* Currently, 28 per cent of U.S. families own two or more cars and the routine maintenance of these automobiles is being looked after increasingly by the woman of the house. The American Petroleum Institute suggests that the same care be given to selecting the right service dealer as is given to choosing the family doctor, dentist, or attorney.

How do you find the right service outlet where you are confident your car is in competent hands? API has these suggestions:

1. Ask your friends to find out which place they patronize.

2. Shop around before you have to call for serious help. Drive in sometime when the outlet is not too busy. Have something definite in mind to have done to your car—something that can be done while you wait. Observe the manner in which the work is being done, the caliber of the manager and attendants, and ask some questions. If the place is a busy one, you may have to make an appointment, but a busy facility is usually an efficient one.

3. See if the attendant uses test equipment. Since automobiles run on a series of chain reactions, test equipment will help check all the links of the chain, protect you from unnecessary expense and help you get better overall performance from your car.

4. Appearance is another thing to consider. A sloppy shop may be a sign of inefficiency.

All the test equipment in the world can't do much good if it's kept in the back of the shop covered with old rags. This is a good indication that the equipment is seldom used, and probably won't be used on your car either.

5. Notice displays of accessories and tires. A neat and adequate supply is a good sign that the part or product you may need will be available when you need it.

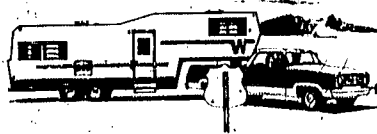

6. If the atmosphere smacks of bargains, beware! Sales are one thing, bargains another. Cut-rate brake jobs and such are dubious at best. A good serviceman knows what has to be done, and he knows how much he must charge to cover his cost of doing it right.

7. Finally, don't go in with the notion that a man who wants to check this, that, and the other, without being asked, is a sharp salesman. Cheeking and servicing your car is his business, and a part of this service is to call to your attention problems you may not have noticed—a bald tire, a leaking radiator hose, a loose fan belt—any of which, if neglected, can cause trouble, even danger for you.

You have the option of buying or not buying what your serviceman recommends, but at least you'll know what lies ahead. Preventive maintenance—or servicing your car properly before serious trouble strikes—saves money in the long run, not to mention time and aggravation.

Motel Owner Vacations in a Motorhome

When She wants Break from Routine She Takes Family Outdoors to Relax

By A. W. HARRIS

How does the owner of a busy motel get away from it all? Carol Russell, whose inn in Commerce Springs sits in the shadow of Pike's Peak, has her own personal escape hatch.

When she needs a break from a successful hostelry that most nights posts the "No Vacancy" sign, she climbs into her Avco motorhome and drives away. For a week, or more likely a weekend, she becomes herself a traveler.

Carol became interested in the burgeoning field of motorhome travel through a family friend and fellow businessman, William Becker, a recreational vehicle dealer in Central Colorado, where doorsteps lead directly to innumerable mountain streams, resorts, and national parks.

Most days Bill Becker lunches at Carol's inn, and on one occasion drove there in an Avco motorhome, which caught her eye. One test drive led to another, which Becker's sales pitch ended in a purchase.

Carol's brother, Wayne Dondelinger, and his family that includes three young children, swap weekends with Carol and her two teenagers. "Occasionally we all go together," Carol says. "It's one active motorhome on those days. But even that beats the confines of a car."

Brother and sister are avid ski buffs, and the role played by their motorhome as a ski chalet rates full marks from both families. "Now we can ski all the slopes, and not feel the need to continually return to the same one because we own an apartment there."

Carol's moveable ski chalet serves as more than a substitute for owning resort property. Colorado lodge accommodations are snapped up weeks in advance and lines form early at the chairlifts. Parked for the night in her motorhome, she beats the accommodations problem and is only a short schuss to the expert slope.

During the day, the motorhome serves as a readily accessible and cozy warm respite from the cold outside. Lunch time times are by-passed, and a hot meal quickly is prepared. At the end of an energetic day, there is a private place to rest, shower and change for dinner.

"Even when we don't stay the night," Carol says, "having those conveniences all to ourselves adds tremendously to the fun."

Turning an experienced eye on the comforts and general housekeeping of an Avco motorhome, Carol finds little to complain about. She particularly values the vehicle's compact design, if for no other reason than that a 28-foot motorhome contrasts sharply with 150-plus rooms that are her daily concern.

One housekeeping short-cut she follows but does not necessarily recommend to others: "Use sleeping bags placed on top of the motorhome bunks. I hate to even think about making beds during vacation," is her explanation, understandable in view of the

The option to travel where they want, when they want and to stay as long as they want is the reason more and more families are selecting a motor home as a vacation home.

230 beds requiring attention back home.

Relaxation is what Carol Russell seeks in a motorhome, an environment far removed from her world of housing, feeding and entertaining several hundred guests each day. Occasional journeys from these responsibilities are what she and her brother value, and what motorhome ownership provides.

Fifth Wheel Trailer May Revolutionize R-V World

One of the more disconcerting characteristics of traditional trailer-type vehicles to the inexperienced driver has been their tendency in varying degrees to sway in a sideways motion on the road. Improved suspension, equalizer-type tires have corrected much of that tendency, but the neophyte RV driver may still have his apprehensions.

In very recent years, however, a basic new approach to RV trailer design has greatly reduced the side-sway problem. It is the "semi" trailer or "fifth wheel" concept, which some authorities feel will ultimately equal the popularity of today's equalizer-hitch travel trailer.

By designing the front end of the trailer like a cab-over-engine unit and resting its weight on the chassis of the pickup vehicle, it can be pulled over the toughest routes with stability that is substantially improved over traditional trailering methods.

Fifth wheel trailer buyers may select from a variety of pickup trucks that can be adapted for fifth wheel use. And now International Trucks has introduced the multi-purpose Wagonmaster that also can accommodate fifth wheel trailers.

The International RV line, which includes the Scout, the Traveler, and a variety of pickup vehicles including the Traveler.

With the same trailering capabilities and passenger comforts as the Traveler wagon, the Wagonmaster offers the unique combination of seating for six persons and a five-foot, pick-up-type bed. The result is the only six-passenger, fifth wheel package small enough to tuck into the average family garage.

The length of the overall rig is substantially shorter than a comparable equalizer-hitch rig, since part of the sleeping quarters rides over the pickup bed. The result is added safety and maneuverability on the road.

If you expect to go inter-

The Wagonmaster is the first compact multi-purpose vehicle designed to meet all needs—recreational and business travel. It's a pickup truck, while also being adaptable for towing fifth wheel trailers.

ally off the beaten path with your rig, you should consider an All Wheel Drive chassis under your towing vehicle. You'll be better off with four wheels working for you on tough terrain than you will be with only two. It's an option available on most pickups.

There is another important choice to be made, also. Keep in mind that 29 states, and most Canadian provinces prohibit passengers from riding in a moving trailer. This means that when on the road everybody climbs into the cab. For the small family, a standard pickup seating three may be adequate. Larger families, however, should investigate a six-passenger pickup.

For the advantages of both, the Wagonmaster's large passenger cab and the pickup's full-sized bed, a unit such as the Traveler may be best. It combines all these features into a single vehicle, which is also available in All Wheel Drive and with all style and power options.

Whatever your needs, if you've been thinking of investing in a traditional trailer rig, you should not make your decision until you test a fifth wheel rig, a growing new trend in travel trailers.

Cleaner Engines Call For Better Cooling

In designing anti-emission systems to help reduce air pollution, our manufacturers are installing hotter-running engines in today's vehicles. Therefore, it has become even more critical that cooling systems be in top condition to handle the higher engine temperatures.

This means that the cooling system should be checked twice a year for the following:

Leak-free radiator; soundness of all hoses and connections; properly operating thermostat; radiator cap is sealing efficiently; water pump is working, and coolant levels are normal.

Proper mixture of coolant, for both summer and winter operation, is about 50 per cent ethylene glycol-type anti-freeze and 50 per cent water. This so-called permanent-type anti-freeze should be replaced every two years or 30,000 miles, whichever ever comes first.

While on the subject of anti-freeze, the "self-sealing" variety that claims it can stop radiator leaks offers only a temporary solution to a leak problem. Containing, generally, an asbestos-type compound, the "leak-proof" anti-freeze is effective only for a short time. Once revealed, the leak should be located and repaired by a competent auto service technician.

THESE NEW SAFER TOOLS CAN BE A FAMILY AFFAIR

The home workshop does not belong just to the handy man of the house anymore. The entire family is finding out that tools and woodworking projects can be great fun regardless of the degree of skills involved.

The trend to tool-togetherness has been sparked by the innovation and improvement in the safety and operation of both hand and power equipment.

For hobby and home maintenance use a good tool set costs about $70 and it should be based on a portable electric drill according to experts of a large retail chain. While hammers, saws, chisels, etc. are single purpose tools, a power drill with attachments can perform dozens of jobs and add a professional touch to most any project.

For family use important drill features include double insulation for protection against electrical shock, variable speeds with low, medium and high settings, you may lock in position for continuous running and a reverse gear so you may back out of a hole.

Sears, Roebuck and Co. experts point out that portable electric drills are manufactured in several sizes. The most popular sizes are the 3/8-inch, 1/2 horsepower and 1 1/4-inch models. With accessories, the drill may be used as a power screwdriver, sanding machine, paint mixer, circular saw, grinder, polisher, buffer, even a hedge trimmer for garden use. Cost of drills range from about $9 to $35, drill kits that include accessories are available from about $20.

Even with accessories attached, power drills today are light enough for a woman or child to handle. With a little practice, basic operating techniques soon become easy. From buffing the final finish on a wood working project to drilling holes in concrete. For example, building furniture pieces with Sears' two new plans is easier to do with a portable electric drill and attachments. The plans a circus wagon toy chest and captain's style desk are packaged with construction details, a tool list and how to do it photographs and are available at most Sears' stores.

Portable drill quality features include a housing that is well machined and fits together tightly. With double insulation, you don't need a 3-pronged outlet and outlet adapter. The drill may be used outdoors. Handle the drill and check it for balance. By twisting it in several positions, you can readily tell if it is balanced and will be easy to use without tiring your hands and arms.

Other buymanship points include a trigger switch with a safety release for added safety, double reduction gears for extra smooth power transmission, and a pin-type spindle lock so you may easily remove the drill chuck.

Watch it! Soon you'll be up and away, carried away in the happy world of crafts.

Canada Offers Wide Variety Outdoors

By PAT McCLOSKEY
Canada is blessed with every conceivable type of geographical terrain. And for each type there exists a corresponding outdoor activity.

There is something in Canada to suit the needs of every individual, family or group.

The center for much of Canada's outdoor participation is in its world-renowned system of national parks. These huge wilderness tracts, now totaling 29, have been set aside for this and future generations to bear witness to the beauty and variety of the land.

To achieve this end, the parks offer a wide range of activities from trail riding to canoeing, hiking and camping. Interpretative programs and brochures explain the uniqueness of each area and some of the flora and fauna curiosities within the park.

Parks Popular
Though the mountain and ocean parks in particular have heavy summer crowds, visitors in the spring and fall have every opportunity to enjoy the parks.

Other national parks such as Kejimikojik (Nova Scotia), Fundy (New Brunswick), Terra Nova (Newfoundland), Riding Horse (Alberta), and Prince Albert (Saskatchewan), have plenty of space and activities for summer visitors.

An even larger number of provincial parks throughout the country have been established to acquaint people with the land.

In recent years the country has taken to hiking. A network of trails leading through timberline terrain, coastal seascapes, lush wetland forest and low rolling country meets the demand created by a renewed interest in the outdoors. Ontario's famous Bruce Trail leads 435 miles along the Niagara Escarpment. It will eventually link up with the New York State Finger Lakes Trail and the Appalachian Trail forming a hiking path from Georgia to Georgian Bay.

Complete New Trail
The newly-completed Rideau Trail joins Kingston, Ontario with Ottawa, while in the Laurentian Mountains north of Montreal, 250 miles of trails meander through forests and over hills from Shawbridge to Ste-Agathe.

In the west, the 130-mile Centennial Trail stretches from the Coast Mountains rising Vancouver, inland to Manning Provincial Park. Much of the Centennial lies in valleys, but the approach to the park climbs to an elevation of 5,000 feet. For the golfer, Canada offers nearly one thousand courses distributed throughout the ten provinces and two territories.

The extensive network of waterways found in many Canadian provinces has been the scene lately of a revival of canoeing. While many national and provincial parks are hard pressed to keep up with the demand for rentals, canoes can often be rented from private outfitters.

Such areas as Ontario's Quietweir Provincial Park on the Minnesota border, Quebec's Lac Verendrye Park and the inland water system of New Brunswick offer many possibilities for long and short wilderness canoe trips.

The increasing awareness of the importance of replogy, and the subsequent interest in preserving a natural state, has contributed to the increase of another creature in the woods: the photographer.

Information Offered
Canada offers much for outdoor photography. It fronts on three oceans, and the landscape in between includes rolling hills, flatlands, mountain ranges and arctic regions, covered by deciduous and coniferous forests and tundra. This and the abundance of wildlife add up to years of photo-taking possibilities for those who spare no pains for the perfect shot.

For more information contact your local Canadian Government Travel Bureau office, or write Bureau headquarters at 150 Kent Street, Ottawa, Ontario K1A 0A9.

THE Intruder is just one of the many models of travel trailers available from Brockman's Trailer Sales of Burley and Twin Falls and part of their display on the mall for your inspection.

SEE AND BE SEEN!

Among the most common reasons for rejection at vehicle inspection stations throughout the country are items affecting visibility. In some areas, as high as a 50 percent rejection rate occurs on items such as lights and windshield wiper and washer systems.

Experts say that headlight aiming should be checked several times a year. Wiper blades should be replaced every six months.

DID YOU KNOW?
Did you know that if you drive a car an average of 10,000 miles per year its spark plugs have probably fired some 15 million times during that period? That's why they should be serviced at 5,000 miles and replaced at 10,000 miles.

Carbon on the distributor points can lead not only to spark plug misfiring but in some cases can cause complete ignition failure.

Some Motor Accidents Traced to Missed Meal

Abnormally low blood-sugar levels, induced by missed meals, may be a direct cause of accidents.

This is the view of Miss M. S. Christian, Head of the Accident and Emergency Department at Wexham Park Hospital, Slough, England. In accident studies she found that several truck drivers who crashed for no apparent reason had extremely low blood-sugar levels.

In three cases, the drivers were either confused, faint or ill but each recovered after a shot of intravenous glucose and a meal. None of them was diabetic and all were young and healthy. The common factor was that each driver had at least 12 hours' starvation.

This new danger was discovered by Miss Christian during a survey she is undertaking of the "unknown factors" in road accidents.

The survey, which will also look into the effects of such factors as tranquillizers and diabetes, includes a question to establish the relationship between the time of the accident and the last meal.

Symptoms associated with low blood-sugar are weakness, drowsiness, dizziness, mental confusion, double vision, aggression and other abnormal behavior. Because symptoms can show at levels not much lower than those after the normal 12 hour overnight fast, anyone undertaking a long journey should not skip a meal.

Truck drivers who make early starts without breakfasts are obviously at risk but so may be people on slimming diets. Just how widespread the problem is is not known, but clearly should be a matter of concern.

that an individual has the necessary competence and skills to be certified as a General Automobile Mechanic.

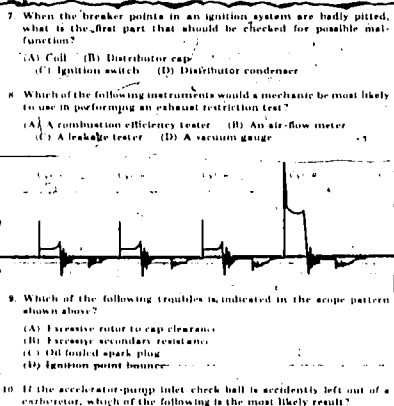

The voluntary mechanic certification program is the first project of the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence. Headquartered in Washington, D.C., the independent, non-profit body was organized by concerned segments of the vehicle service industry to improve the quality of automobile repairs through testing and educational projects.

Each test will cost $10 and if the mechanic so chooses he may spread out completion of the battery over a one or two year period. Although he is recognized for successfully completing each part, full certification will not be granted until all four tests have been passed.

The certification examinations were developed by Educational Testing Service, a nationally-known organization which will also administer and score the tests.

The questions do not relate to specific vehicle makes or models — domestic or imported, but focus instead on basic systems.

Here reproduced from one of the Institute for Automotive Service Excellence manuals are some of the types of questions those who will be taking the tests must cope with in earning certification as a General Automobile Mechanic.

Here's How To... Add An "Outdoor" Room To Your Home

Enjoy your own private vacationland...no reservations necessary...travel time minimal...rates very reasonable...Just step into your own backyard!

If your yard doesn't lend itself to your kind of gracious, comfortable, convenient, outdoor fun...change it. Make it a do-it-yourself project this year to plan your outdoor entertainment center, patio or much a patio, and then furnish and equip it so that outdoor living will be comfortable all year long.

View your available outdoor living space with imagination. Is an elegant, luxurious, canopied patio right for you...or would your family and friends be more comfortable reclining on home-made furniture on a brightly painted patio? Remember, even a slab of concrete can be brightened with waterproof paint, and coordinated with outdoor furniture and decorations.

For privacy and a real feel of being in the great outdoors, a few flowers and shrubs will help. Try out your "green thumb" by planting a small garden...perhaps one with vegetables or an exotic Japanese motif, or, if the "land" allows, why not a rock garden. Once your outdoor vacationland begins to "take shape," you'll want to add convenience features. First necessity is usually a grill for cooking outdoors is one of the most popular and enjoyable pastimes known. A convenient grill operated on natural gas will make outdoor cooking easy and carefree. Gas grills are now available in a variety of shapes and sizes, and vary from simple models to elaborate double grill oven combinations.

The comfort of home combined with a picnic atmosphere are at your reach with the help of modern gas appliances.

When designing your "outdoor" room, remember that a gas grill can be installed almost anywhere. It may be mounted on a permanent post set in concrete with a below ground gas line; on a pedestal base fastened to a patio or deck with a gas connection below ground; or on a portable cart with a flexible hose and quick connection to supply gas to the grill.

Infrared patio heaters, operated by natural gas, can help keep you warm and comfortable even on very cold days. These unique heaters beam directly on solid objects, like people and furniture, so that the heat isn't wasted on the air around the patio. People stay warm even when the temperature is chilly.

To make your outdoor vacationland usable by night, as well as by day, and to enhance its appearance, gas lights are the perfect solution. Modern gas lights provide a soft glowing light and attract fewer flying insects than conventional lighting.

Once you've created your own "outdoor" room, you'll soon discover that the Great Outdoors begins right in your own backyard.

Lost Afloat? Radio Can Help Find Position

If you can't determine your off-shore location, a common radio receiver will help. Here's how:

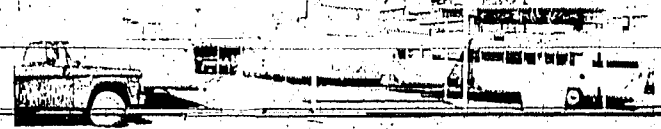

Tune in a station (Fig. 1), rotate radio receiver to determine the null (where the signal fades). Turn the boat until the null line is parallel to the beam of the craft and move on a 90-degree course until you receive a definite course correction to original null.

To keep the station on null, rotate radio. If null is left, station is at left. Turn craft so line of null is parallel to the center line of the boat. Then "home" in on the station and chart a direct course.

Radio, with an azimuth scale, such as Zenith's famous Trans-Oceanic Royal D7000Y, will help locate your position a second way, with the help of a map. Tune station, rotate radio to find the null, set the azimuth disc to magnetic north and read the bearing of the radio station (Fig. 2). Add 180 degrees for the bearing of craft from the station and draw a chart line through the station location. Repeat procedure on a second station well apart from the first. Your position is where the two lines intersect.

TRAVEL trailers have become a part of almost everybody's lives now with the desire to get away on weekends. See a complete line of travel trailers on display from Youree Motor Co. Recreational vehicles including the 1973 Air Stream.

Clear Channel Stations Geared to Remote Areas

More than half of the country would be in a broadcast blackout at night if it were not for clear channel radio stations.

This station was made recently by audio experts at Zenith Radio Corporation, which for half a century has been directly involved in the development of radios and broadcasting.

These "powerful" clear channel stations often provide the only source of news and entertainment to campers, hunters and other outdoorsmen who travel to remote areas.

The clear channel stations utilize the world's ionosphere at night by reflecting their radio waves off the "mirror" for great distances. One clear channel station, WGN-radio in Chicago, has received letters from listeners from all forty-eight continental states indicating a reception of the station's signal at night.

The following is a list of 27 clear channel stations as allocated by the Federal Communications Commission:

From Man in the Family, A Specialty of the House

Many men love to cook, especially outdoors. One very popular man specialty is Beef Shish-Kabob, a flavorful, delicious meat that's perfect at a family gathering, a large party or a romantic dinner for two.

BEEF SHISH-KABOB
2 lbs. lean beef round
3 green peppers
12 large mushrooms
2 c. salad oil
1 c. vinegar
1 c. chopped onion
1 t. salt
1 t. coarsely ground or cracked pepper
2 t. Worcestershire or steak sauce

1 c. red wine
1 t. dry mustard
Cut beef into 1 1/2-inch cubes. Blend salad oil, vinegar, onion, salt, pepper, Worcestershire sauce, wine and mustard. Pour over beef cubes in deep bowl and let stand at room temperature 2 or 3 hours, turning meat occasionally. When ready to cook, thread beef and wedges of green pepper alternately on skewer, including 2 mushrooms per skewer. Grill over flame at high setting, turning often for 12-15 minutes. Makes 6-8 servings.

FOR A SUBTLE "OUTDOORSY" FLAVOR, soak hickory chips or small twigs from wild cherry or sugar maple overnight in water. Wrap the chips or twigs in foil, punch holes in it and place it directly on the coals or briquettes. Or, add the chips directly to the coals just before the food is done. For a deep smoke flavor, add the chips when you start cooking.

Don't leave an open hose running on the ground - the water will run off and be wasted.

Spike holes in sloping lawns, dig basins around trees, to retain water and prevent run-off.

LOTS OF AIR
An average automobile engine uses about 9,000 gallons of air for every gallon of gasoline. Have your air cleaner serviced regularly for top performance.

CAR CARE QUIZ THE NUMBERS GAME

If you are the typical driver, you'll put considerably more mileage on your car during spring and summer than you do in the cold weather months. That means your odometer will be spinning a lot faster. If your odometer could talk as well as spin, it might be the best car care adviser you've ever had. Why?

The mileage recorded on the odometer is often an indication of when to have vital maintenance performed.

This quiz links mileage with suggested service intervals. So, see how well you can listen to your silent odometer.

Decision delayed on Burley's proposed zone plan

BURLEY — The Burley Planning Commission will meet again before making a final recommendation to the City Council on the proposed zoning ordinance.

The commission held a public hearing on the ordinance Tuesday night. About 30 people attended and over a dozen complaints against the ordinance were voiced.

Nearly all the complaints came from individuals requesting that more north side area, especially west of Overland Avenue and along the railroad tracks, be zoned commercial. Most of this is now zoned "R-3" residential.

Asked how far ahead the commission had planned, commission member William Parsons said 10-15 years. The new ordinance complies as closely as possible with existing structures and businesses, he said, but it has no jurisdiction over lands not currently in the city limits.

The growth will be mainly in areas not yet in the city limits, commission member James Roper said.

The group decided to meet May 3 to consider points brought up in the public hearing Tuesday. When the commission makes a final recommendation, the city council will then have to hold another public meeting before making their final decision.

The planning commission holds only an advisory position to the city council.

The commission, following the request of the City Council, discussed the proposed Law Enforcement Building. The council had asked for a recommendation on the building's location between the present city and county buildings.

After lengthy discussion, the commission decided to recommend that the site for the building be moved to the northeast corner of Fourteenth Street and Albion Avenue, across the street from the Burley Junior High School. The 125 foot by 125 foot lot is currently used for parking.

The recommended site actually has more room for the 80 foot by 80-foot structure and more available parking than the originally proposed site.

Protests had been lodged against the proposed site between the city and county buildings because the law enforcement building would have extended beyond the structures to within 27 feet of the sidewalk.

Police Chief Ken Barry said the commission's proposed site change would be workable and perfectly acceptable to him.

In a separate motion, the commission recommended that the council negotiate with the school board for "adequate" property on the east side of the alley behind the City Hall in exchange for adjacent city property.

The land, part of the present junior high school football field, would be used for parking. The city already owns about half of the field, which will be used as a playground when the school is remodeled into an elementary school.

In a third motion, the commission sent a recommendation to the city council that, following failure of the site change recommendation, the law enforcement building be constructed on the originally proposed site but set back through the alley behind the city hall-courthouse complex.

By setting the building back, the commission felt the obstruction would be lessened.

The first two motions were passed unanimously, but the last received one negative vote. Edward Elliott, who had lodged a protest Monday at the public hearing for the law enforcement building, said he was opposed to construction of the building on the originally proposed site under any circumstances.

The City Council will consider the recommendations at its regular meeting May 7.

Three file in Minidoka

RUPERT — Three petitions for Minidoka School trustee positions have been turned in ahead of the Friday deadline.

Dr. Harold Catmull, Rupert, has turned in the only petition to date for the Zone 4 trustee position currently held by Nile Maricle, school board chairman. Maricle, who is completing his second term, has not filed a petition.

Two petitions have been turned in for the Zone 1 position. Roger Brown, Heyburn, who was appointed to the position in December when trustee Leo Moore moved out of the district, and Blaine Anderson, have both turned in petitions for the seat.

Several other petitions have been taken out but have not been turned in.

Zone 1 is located in the Heyburn area and Zone 4 encompasses most of Rupert.

Petitions for the three-year positions are due by 5:00 p.m. Friday. They may be picked up at and returned to the Minidoka Central School Office. Trustee elections will be May 15.

GF teachers get pay hike

GLENNS FERRY — Glenns Ferry teachers will receive a $400 across-the-board raise next year, trustees decided Tuesday night.

The new salary schedule for the 1973-74 budget, which they tentatively approved, sets base pay for a beginning teacher at $6,600 while the top salary scale is now $9,925.

The $460,494.51 budget is an increase of $31,959 over last year's figure of $428,535.32, or about a seven per cent raise.

Most of the increase is reflected in the salary raise, with $328,625.06 budgeted for next year, compared to $305,752.88 last year. Other major expenditures include administrative, $30,140 compared to $26,845 last year; operation of plant, $45,050 compared to $39,000, which includes increases for janitor salaries as well as utilities, and transportation, up from $26,300 to $28,300. This also reflects salary increases for bus drivers.

Estimated income from the state and county foundation apportionment is set at $205,019.50 next year, compared to $154,200 this current year. Income from Elmore county taxes is estimated at $209,925 compared to $220,273.32 last year, reflecting the cut from 30 to 27 mill levy and decreased evaluation.

Supt. George Powell said he believes an across-the-board raise is better than a percentage increase because it helps the beginning teachers who need the increase the most. Last year the district gave a $200 across-the-board raise and eliminated the four lowest pay grades.

Public hearing on the budget is scheduled at 8 p.m. May 10 in the high school lunch room.

Supt. Powell said the district needs one janitor and two bus drivers for the coming year.

Trustees discussed the bus route in the Ryb Grass area, northwest town toward Bennett Mountain. Several new people have moved into the sparsely populated route and the superintendent said the board is considering asking these newcomers to find a small bus and bring their children to where the regular school bus route now runs, but no decision was made.

Inside view of Moore Business Forms Jerome plant

Jerome plant fires up

JEROME — The first business forms rolled off the presses Wednesday in a trial run at the new Moore Business Forms plant which is nearing completion in Jerome.

A company official said construction is progressing on schedule and should be completed between June 1 and June 5.

The spokesman said workmen are now placing the final siding on the outside of the structure, while interior offices are about half finished with furniture awaiting installation. Six area women and 10 men are now being trained in preparation for the plant's initial output, the official said.

He said plant officers are presently reviewing applications for future hiring. When the plant is in full operation it will employ about 150 men and 70 women. Tests are now being given at area employment offices.

According to Fred Wise, supervisor, women in the preliminary department are being trained in composition and paste-up. Women will also do type setting and lay-out, he said, as well as work as price checkers and scheduling clerks in addition to general secretarial and clerical duties. Women will also be employed in the finishing department.

Plant manager Richard Wasson said the plant will operate on a five-day week, with the press and collator department running on a three-shift schedule.

The company plans to bring 20 families from its other plants to help run the Jerome facility when it is completed. Several of these families are already living in Jerome.

Hansen speaks at mental health fete

By TORAYNE SMITH
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS "Our failure to make the proper investment in love and care for children will mean paying a high price later," Rep. Orval Hansen, R-Idaho, said here Wednesday night.

He was the speaker at the second annual mental health membership dinner at the College of Southern Idaho Student Union. The dinner was jointly sponsored by the CSI Student Mental Health and Twin Falls County Mental Health associations and the South Central Idaho Mental Health Center advisory board.

Rep. Hansen said most health programs depend heavily upon volunteer help and workers in mental health "deserve extra praise because they have to develop public understanding of the many misconceptions about mental illness."

Discussing his work in Congress in the field of child care, Rep. Hansen said there are an estimated 6 million children in the country under 6 whose mothers work full time. Qualified day care facilities can handle about 1 million, leaving the others in the care of neighbors, older brothers or unsupervised.

He said, "Our failure to respond to this problem, will result in enormous costs — both social and financial — in years to come."

"The problem is going to get worse — it won't go away," he said.

Admitting there are honest differences of opinion of how to help, the congressman said part of the problem is caused by lack of proper perspective and public understanding.

Some people envision only expensive federally operated centers where children are "politically brainwashed," he said, while he sees the federal role as supplementing, not supplanting, the home.

This can be done by providing needed information to parents about child development and mobilizing efforts of the many diverse groups concerned about children, as well as providing adequate training for specialists so youngsters needing special attention can get qualified care.

Another proper role of the federal government is providing criteria for these specialized areas as career fields.

A society which neglects its children risks future disorganization with frightening consequences, Rep. Hansen said.

Wesley Fields, Fairfield, chairman of the South Central Idaho Mental Health Center's advisory board, reported on the status of the mental health center in Twin Falls, whose staff is currently completing data for an operating grant and exploring other avenues of funding.

He said it is hoped some state funding will be possible and the center can have office space in the American Legion Hall after it is remodeled.

Dale Ilger, Boise, president, and Jim Manser, executive director, of the Idaho State Mental Health Association, were introduced. O.A. (Gus) Kelker was master of ceremonies. Rev. Robert Van Nest, of the Twin Falls Presbyterian Church, offered the invocation.

Attend dinner

REP. ORVAL HANSEN, R-Idaho, and Mrs. Rep. Hill, teacher of exceptional children at Buhl, confer after the mental health dinner Wednesday night at CSI. The congressman spoke on problems relating to children.
